TORTURE RACK DISCOVERED IN MURDER HOUSE

Taxi Driver Confesses Taking Part in Two Detroit Profit Slayings.

GRAVE PREPARED

Acknowledge Rings and Bolts Installed for Purpose of Torturing Victims.

(By United Press)

DETROIT—Police found a rack for torture in the attic of "murder house" today and questioned two young men who had confessed two murders of revolting brutality, about what other crimes they had scheduled for the future.

John R. Kasap, 22, a taxi driver, joined John Kursawa, 21, in acknowledging responsibility for the murder of Philip Loyst, 24, and of Dorsey E. Bowman, 35. Loyst returned a profit of $325, Bowman, $385

Loyst's grave was prepared in the cellar of "murder house" even before he had been selected as a victim. Another grave was prepared beside his, but its prospective tenant felt a strange intuitive warning and evaded it.

"Murder house" was a drab two-story house in a middle class neighborhood rented and furnished by Kasap and Kursawa with the proceeds of the Bowman murder. In its attic, police found rings and bolts place in floor and rafters in such a way that they approximated the rack used in the Middle Ages to torture humans.

Denies Rack Used.

Kasap acknowledged that the rings and bolts had been installed for the purpose of torture, but denied that they had ever been used.

Bowman was ill and needed money. On Feb. 1 he advertised his automobile for sale. Kurzawa answered the advertisement, took Bowman to the home of Kasap's parents, who were away, where Kasap was waiting with a pistol. Kasap confessed yesterday, as Kursawa confessed last week, that Bowman was slain, his body was dumped into his own car, carried to a dump, saturated with kerosene, and set on fire. Feb. 11 it

Scientists Told Rayon Tire Best In Hot Weather

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Rayon automobile tires, so named because their cords are made of the silky synthetic material, were described to the American Chemical Society here today as 8,000 per cent more durable in hot weather driving than standard tires of cotton cord.

The rayon, however, is made from the same raw cotton which has been used in tires, so that the improvement does not promise any economic dislocation in use of cotton. The report was made by William H. Bradshaw, director of rayon research for the duPont company.

He said the results in road tests are "astounding," on an overloaded, high speed run in a hot country, rayon tires gave 80,000 miles of service under conditions that wore out ordinary tires in 3,000 miles. Rayon tires held up for 18,000 miles in a 106 degree temperature which wore out standard tires in 600 miles.

Nose-Count In District Shows Lag

Census 35 Per Cent Done, Will Run Into Third Week, Says Harper.

Uncle Sam's decennial nose count in the 17th congressional district is running a little behind schedule and it is probable that the 1940 census in the six counties will not be completed until next week.

District Director Don Harper said at Mt. Vernon today that the job, at the completion of the first week Saturday, was only about 35 per cent done. It had been expected that the survey would be completed this week.

"It is highly dubious that the count will be completed on schedule," Harper said. "It may take an additional three days next week to complete the job."

The reason for the slowness in gathering the factual information by government workers is that several enumerators in the district have had to be replaced, he said.

Of the 271 enumerators in the six counties about a dozen have withdrawn because they were unable to do the work, but it has been enough to slow up the population count in the district.

It was estimated that enumerators have called on more than 30,000 persons in the district without having received a single refusal to answer any of the questions the government is asking in order to compile it's 16th decennial census.

Enumerators are seeking the answers to 33 questions from each person or household, and 17 supplementary questions from a 5 per cent cross section of the population.

The supplementary questions concern the nativity of each person's parents, the mother tongue, military service of each veteran and the number of wives, widows and children of veterans, number of pension recipients and the source, and the number of times the woman has been married.

GIVE MATINEE

'Tobacco Road' to Have Two Showings Tomorrow.

Due to a complete sell-out of the evening performance of the road show "Tobacco Road" at the Madison theater Tuesday, a matinee performance will be given at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow, according to Grattan Johnston, manager.

This is the first sell-out on a legitimate theater attraction in Mansfield in a number of years. Tickets for the matinee performance went on sale this afternoon.

The company which plays at the Madison Tuesday matinee and evening performance is headed by John Barton, who has played the role of "Jeeter" for two years with the road companies.

5 DIE, 13 HURT IN NEW TORNADO

AMITE, La.—(INS)—Five dead, 13 seriously injured and more than 600 homeless were counted today in the wake of a tornado which swept yesterday through this area, north and west of New Orleans. Damage was estimated at more than $500,000.

The dead were Carl Pittman, 45, a county superintendent of schools; Mrs. Pittman, 42; and Oliver Rudison, Negro, all killed at Amite; and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Guillie, drowned with a houseboat on which they were living capsized in Bayou Barataries near Lafitte.

At least 50 houses were levelled in Amite, and a 6-block stretch of the business district was left in ruins. The Catholic and Methodist church were virtually destroyed.

PLANES SIGHTED

British Prepare to Meet Attack By Germans.

LONDON — (INS) — Royal air force planes went aloft in the Shetland Islands area today after an air raid alarm indicated the possible approach of Nazi bombing planes.

While the air ministry announcement did not indicate an attack, it was understood the Nazi planes were sighted flying towards the Shetlands, used by the British navy and air force as a base.

FATHER SEEKING GIRL'S RELEASE

Convinced Child Not Guilty In Hammer Slayings at Los Angeles.

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES—So convinced is Barton Davis that his 11-year-old daughter, Chloe, did not kill her mother, two sisters, and brother that he goes into court today in an effort to force police to release her from custody.

Davis, 42, seeks a writ of habeas corpus to get Chloe out of juvenile hall where she has been lodged since Thursday morning when the bodies of Mrs. Lolita Davis and her three children were found in the Davis home.

Davis charged that police were persecuting the child with their questioning. Chloe complained that she was bored because she didn't have enough to do.

Police were convinced that the unemotional Chloe, who has blue eyes and blond pig-tails, was telling the truth, but were in no hurry to release her. Police Captain Edgar Edwards will answer the father's application for a writ of habeas corpus with a petition asking that Chloe be made a ward of the court until the case is settled.

A coroner's inquest in the deaths will be held tomorrow.

Chloe had told police many times that her mother, distracted by demons, crushed the skulls of Daphne, 10, and Ann, 7, and critically wounded Mark, 3, with a claw hammer.

Her mother intended to kill her too, Chloe said, but she wrested the hammer from her. Chloe said her mother then slashed her own wrists with a razor blade and had commanded her to beat her head with the hammer until she expired. Obeying her mother, Chloe said, she had put Mark "out of his misery" with the hammer.

Whitney's Wife Seeks Divorce In Reno Court

RENO—(U.P.)—Mrs. Mary Elizabeth (Liz) Whitney stepped onto the divorce trail today. Six weeks hence she will become a legal resident of Nevada and privileged to sue John Hay (Jock) Whitney, multimillionaire sportsman, for divorce.

She arrived last night, took over a hotel suite, and asked the waiting reporters to come in. Her lawyers did most of the talking, but during the interview, she burst into tears and left the room.

Mrs. Whitney said she planned to lease a ranch somewhere in the Reno district so she can have her four dogs and two horses which are now in Hollywood. She refused to comment on reports that Whitney had settled $3,000,000 on her but she did say that a property settlement had been arranged.

Both are members of prominent families.

FIRE AT CHURCH

$2,000 Damage Done by Blaze at St. Peter's Sunday.

Fire of an undetermined origin last night broke out in St. Peter's Catholic church, damaging the first floor of the structure, and resulting in an estimated loss of $2,000.

The fire was quickly brought under control by companies Nos. 1 and 3 under the direction of Capt. Paul Young. They laid 650 feet of hose line to fight the blaze which was confined to a room at the rear of the building.

The alarm was sounded by a neighbor near the church who saw the flames through the window about 8:45 p. m. and telephoned the fire department.

Repairs will be started immediately, Msgr. R. C. Goebel said today.

Clouds Cheat Mansfield Out Of Look at Eclipse of Sun

Heavy clouds cheated Mansfielders out of a view of the eclipse of the sun which provided a spectacular show yesterday afternoon in the southern United States.

It became noticeably darker at the peak of the eclipse here about 5 p. m., but the sun was not visible in the Richland county area at any time during the two hours or more that the sun was partly covered by the moon. A steady rain fell throughout the afternoon.

U. S. Army fliers from Dayton, O., photographed the eclipse from a plane 35,000 feet above Jacksonville, Fla. All of the sun except a narrow ring around the outside was covered over a 150-mile wide strip across northern Florida and extending westward into Mexico.

It was 34 degrees below zero up where the army fliers went for their pictures—so cold that the plane's four motors left a trail of frozen exhaust in the substratosphere.

Seen through smoked glass or special photographic filters, the eclipse in the southern states made the sun appear as a huge black dot with a shining orange rim around it. The moon did not cover the entire face of the sun at any time, because it was farther away from the earth than usual and the sun was nearer than usual. In Ohio about 70 per cent of the sun was blotted out.

There will not be another eclipse like it in the United States for 54 years, and not since 1865 has there been one of such widespread visibility in the nation.

THROWS OUT ALL BIDS ON METERS

Crafton Learns Low Bidder on Contract Sold Elsewhere at Better Price.

Rejection of eight bids on 250 new water meters to be purchased by the city was announced today by Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton, who two weeks ago said the contract would be awarded to the Phoenix Meter corporation, New York City.

Crafton said the board of control which is comprised of himself and Mayor William J. Locke rejected all bids after it had been learned that the Phoenix company had sold a quantity of meters to a neighboring city at a lower price.

He said he had been told that 88 meters, which the company proposed to sell Mansfield for $8.90 per unit, were sold to the other city for $8.60 per unit.

Revised specifications, calling for the purchase of 500 meters instead of 250 will be sought within the next two weeks, the service director added. The increase in the quantity is due to the number of meters damaged during the recent cold wave.

The Phoenix company's total bid on the meters was $2,225.

Other bids were the Badger Meter Manufacturing company, Milwaukee, Wis., $2,162.50; Hersey Manufacturing company, Boston, Mass., $2,887.50; Pittsburgh Equitable Meter company, Pittsburgh, Pa., $2,150; Buffalo Meter company, Buffalo, N. Y., $2,175; Neptune Meter company, New York City, $2,625; Hughes Supply company, Mansfield, $2,187.50; A. P. Smith Manufacturing company, East Orange, N. J., $2,265.

REVIEW REFUSED

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The supreme court refused today to review a National Labor board order directing the Republic Steel corporation to reinstate 5,000 or more Ohio employes who participated in the 1937 "little steel" strike.

This was in effect a decision by the federal circuit court at Philadelphia sustaining the reinstatement order except for 40 employes.

The cost of the order to the Republic Steel corporation, the Labor Board said, must await future determination.

A petition for a review of the circuit court ruling, asked by a group of unions of the corporation's employes known as the "Central Council of Steel Plants," also was denied by the high court. The board had ordered their disestablishment on the ground they were "company dominated."

REACHES PORT

German Ship Completes Blockade-Puncturing Voyage.

ROME—(AP)—The German freighter Ankara arrived safely at Trieste today with 5,000 tons of bauxite from Yugoslavia, carried through Yugoslav and Italian territorial waters on a test trip which Germans hoped would open up a new blockade-puncturing route for war supplies.

British warships were believed to be in the Adriatic but the Ankara's captain said no British naval vessels were sighted en route.

Oslo Reports Allied Ships Also Sighted

Tightening of Blockade and Threat of Battle Throw Neutrals Into Near-Panic; Mines Laid by British Off Norway.

(BULLETIN)

ARENDAL, Norway—(AP)—At least 150 Germans and 80 horses were lost today when a British submarine fired two torpedoes into the German steamer Rio De Janeiro four miles off the Norwegian coast. Norwegian fishermen reported there were more than 300 Germans aboard the vessel which they said failed to halt when ordered by the submarine to heave to. The submarine then fired two torpedoes.

(By International News Service)

The greatest naval battle of the war seemed imminent today as a Nazi battle squadron was reported steaming out of the Baltic to protect the Norwegian ore-supply line. Between 50 and 100 vessels were reported in the Nazi fleet.

A sudden and dramatic tightening of the Anglo-French blockade of the Norwegian coast precipitated the Nazi action and threw Scandinavian nations into a near-panic.

British war craft entered Norwegian waters early this morning and laid mine fields at three points in a drastic move to halt Nazi ore carriers. A few hours later, Norway sent up a bitter protest and ordered the Allied war craft out of her waters.

High-lighting the sudden turmoil were reports that the German merchant vessel Kreta sent out SOS messages stating that she was under fire of a British submarine, and that a large unidentified tanker was torpedoed off the Norwegian coast near Sandefjord.

Oslo foresaw the possibility of a major naval battle off Norway's coast. In addition to the reports of the Nazi battle fleet came news that at least four big British or French battleships were sighted. It was presumed they were accompanied by the usual quota of smaller war craft.

Oslo also saw the spectre of hunger and privation threatening her nationals, with the only route between the southern and northern portions of the nation cut by the British mine fields. Roads still are choked by ice and snow, and now the sea lane is severed.

London, whose orders precipitated the crisis, seemed cool and collected. Tomorrow, an official communique said, Prime Minister Chamberlain will make a statement in the House of Commons on the mining of Norwegian territorial waters.

Norway Protests.

The Oslo government demanded the mines be removed immediately and insisted that Anglo-French warships guarding the mines be withdrawn. Oslo also charged the Allies with violating Norwegian neutrality and sovereignty.

Germany seized upon the mine-sowing episode to turn neutral nations against the British and French. This and an alleged Brit-

OSLO: Norway Protests, Demands Removal of Mines

(By United Press)

OSLO, Norway—Norway in a protest to Great Britain demanded today the immediate removal of mine fields laid on the Norwegian coast and the immediate withdrawal of British warship from Norwegian waters.

The mine laying was denounced as "the most severe and the most unwarranted violation of neutrality since the war started."

The protest was made by the Norwegian government in a note to Britain and France after a meeting of the cabinet and the parliamentary foreign affairs committee, called into session after Foreign Minister Halvdan Koht had been called from bed to receive the grave news of the allied action.

Shipping was suspended along the coast as the result of the allied action and a British war fleet steamed in search of German ships.

Three German cutters, heading for Bodoe from Fofoten with fish, were halted during the mine laying operation by a British warship, which forced them to change their course and sail outside the adjacent islands to Kjerrings island, where they took shelter in harbor.

Big British warships were seen off the coast near Bud island, where the central mine field was laid.

During the morning they steamed to a point about ¼ of a mile

BERLIN: Germans Denounce Allies On Norway Mine Move

(By International News Service)

BERLIN—Sowing of mines in Norwegian territorial waters by Anglo-French warships and an alleged British plot to block and sabotage the Danubian river were drummed up by German authorities today as an allied "onslaught" to force neutral nations into the European war.

German officials denounced the Anglo-French mine-sowing activities as an allied "declaration of war on neutrals."

At the same time, they declared a British plan to block Danubian river traffic routes from the Black sea to the Reich had been frustrated with discovery of a plot to dynamite and sink heavy canal barges length-wise across the river at the iron gate at the triangle former by the Rumanian-Hungarian-Yugoslavian borders.

Angrily German authorities said Germany would "accept the Anglo-French challenge."

German officials claimed openly that the Danubian sabotage plot and the mine-laying episode, which caused consternation throughout Scandinavia, were part of a vast allied attempt to spread the war throughout Europe.

At Ease With Third Person

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A mother seeing a letter addressed to me, writes with a slight touch of asperity, "Why does my daughter pour out her heart to you instead of consulting me?"

I used to ask myself the same question in the early days of this column, "Why don't these young people talk out their problems with their parents first?" After many years I've come to the conclusion that they feel more at ease in threshing things out with an impartial third party, than with the home folks.

Remember, there can't be any comeback on my part in the way of glowering looks, tears or tragic acceptance of the worst. If people don't like what I say, there is usually a wastebasket handy. Parents are reminded of these things so that they may be more sympathetic when boys and girls come to them with their problems. Please be patient. Please remember that once you were young.

The girl who is causing young Jim to neglect his homework, while he writes poetry to her eyelashes may be just as silly and no-account as Jim's irate parents imagine her to be. But haven't they completely overlooked one of the fundamentals of human nature which is to defend a seemingly helpless person when attacked? Is the pimply-faced young man who has phoned your daughter three times in one evening worth making an issue of and sending her to bed weeping?

A slight dash of humor may be safely indulged in, about these "firsts," if it has no sub-stratum of bitterness. But don't try to be funny, if you're going to let your real feelings creep in.

It's a good idea to wipe from the minds of adolescents all thoughts of parental prejudice toward the wonder boy or girl. Personally, I'm all for making the young serpent in the domestic Eden apparently welcome. Robbed of the suggestion of forbidden fruit, it's not unlikely your son or daughter may get a true perspective of the young person you regard as undesirable.

Parties are not a bad solution. Invite in other boys and girls, remembering how prone to fickleness is human nature, and that a new face often has the charm of a spring hat to a girl, and Margie may be capable of cutting out Mayme.

Please don't blame me, then, if you happen to see a letter addressed to this column in your son's or daughter's handwriting. Be patient and sympathetic, and remember there's much falling in and out of love before any wedding cards have to be issued.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, April 9.

A moderately active and successful day is presaged from the rule of lunar and mutual aspects of the planets. New projects may be launched with confidence, although it is probable that there may be determined opposition from elders or others maliciously and selfishly disposed. Beware of intrigues and doubtful propositions. The personal, emotional and social relations are also under fine impetus for progress and the pursuit of pleasure. Watch the family health.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to a fairly active and successful year, with new rather than old matters enjoying an impetus to progress and achievement. Initiative and creative faculties are well-stimulated, and may be called on to circumvent opposition from elders or others of selfish or malevolent purpose. The intimate life responds to pleasureable excitements, with comradeship and sociability attractive. In all be alert to suspicious entaglements or intrigues.

A child born on this day may be active, practical and industrious, with much determination and constructiveness. It also may be fond of social activities and indulgence in pleasure, being genial, gracious and kind-hearted.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"You will go in the armored car, of course," he said. "Fortunately, it is so skilfully designed that only the initiated can tell the difference. And you will have guards sufficient to keep all possible danger from you.

"As for your second question," he went on after a slight pause, "that depends upon how quickly the gas can be gotten out of the attic. I'm not going to permit either of you to go up there while the gas still lingers. But I'm going to have every effort made to get it out promptly. Your appointment is at five. You ought to leave here at a quarter of five at the very latest. If I can manage to make it safe for you before then, I should like to have you get those garments, for then Harry could start for New York at once—and the sooner the better. Of course, if this secret passage angle should develop in a certain direction, we shall not need the services of the men who are to masquerade as Mary and Noel. But we cannot afford to take a single chance. We must be prepared for any eventuality."

"Our men are certainly taking their time," Lillian grumbled. "I'd like to get out of here, but, of course, we can't until the hall is clear of fumes."

As if her words had invoked our husbands, we heard their rapid footsteps, and then an imperative knock upon the door—Harry's.

"Everything clear out here," he said. 'It's perfectly safe to come out."

My father rose from his chair, not quickly, for he was undisguisedly feeble, but with determination, and neither Lillian nor I dared to offer him support. We followed him into the hall.

"Those men are safely confined and all right?" he queried of Harry.

"Except that they're coughing their heads off, they're right as rain," Harry said.

"Good!" my father commented, his eyes brightening. "How soon do you think they'll be in shape to talk?"

"They'll be able to whisper in an hour or two," Dicky said, "but later tonight they ought to find their mislaid voices."

'We'll leave them until later," my father decided, "perhaps until tomorrow morning. Just now I want to get the attic cleared of gas so that it will be safe for Margaret and Lillian to go up there."

"That's easy," Harry replied. "The Dickybird and I have firemen's masks. We'll go up and see that everything is safe for democracy and our wives. After that, what are your commands?"

"I'd like you to come over to my room. There's something very important to be done. Margaret, will you and Lillian come back to my room with the clothing as soon as you retrieve it? Be sure that you get a complete outfit of everything, including hats and shoes."

"We'll be there in five minutes flat after the boys pronounce the attic safe for us," Lillian replied. "I know Madge's packing away of mothproofed clothing. Everything will be so legibly and carefully labeled that it will be child's play to select them."

My father smiled at me.

"I know how methodical she is," he said with a note of pride in his voice. "Then I shall expect you all within the hour."

He turned away, walking in the direction of his room, and for the moment I forgot the urgency of the commission he had given us in my anxiety at seeing how feeble were his movements.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY

Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

TYPES OF STRONG HANDS

When you hold a powerful hand at the left of the opening bidder, your job is twofold—to proclaim it to your partner and also indicate just what kind of strong hand you possess. Otherwise, your side may land in the wrong declaration. Your chief weapons in such cases are: (1) An informative or takeout double, (2) a No-Trump bid, (3) a jump bid in one of your suits, and (4) a bid of the opponent's suit.

1. ♠ A K Q 7 4 2 ♥ 6 3 ♦ A Q J ♣ Q 2
2. ♠ A K Q 7 ♥ 6 3 ♦ A Q 2 ♣ Q J 4 2
3. ♠ A Q 7 2 ♥ K J 6 ♦ A Q 2 ♣ Q 4 3
4. ♠ A Q J 2 ♥ K J 6 ♦ 5 4 2 ♣ A K 3
5. ♠ A K Q 7 4 ♥ 6 ♦ A J 9 7 2 ♣ Q 4
6. ♠ A K Q J ♥ 6 ♦ A Q J 10 ♣ A K J 10

With neither side vulnerable, and the dealer having bid 1-Heart, if you held the above hands, your best action, in line with the practice used by the finest players, would be to double with 1, 2 or 3, bid 1-No Trump with 4, 2-Spades with 5 and 2-Hearts with 6.

With 1, a double followed by a spade bid on the next round, regardless of what might be the intervening action, would give a perfect picture of your hand, powerful and with a fine suit. With 2, if your partner bids No Trump to show heart stoppers, raise it; if he bids diamonds or clubs, bid spades; if he bids spades or No Trump, raise; if the next opponent bids and so shuts out your partner, double again, asking a response.

With 3, if your partner responds with spades, raise; if anything else, bid No Trump. The purpose of the No Trump with 4, instead of a double, is that, if the opponents find a fit with diamonds and your partner has them stopped, he knows about your heart stops and so can go on with No Trump.

With 5 you show one suit first, instead of doubling to make sure you can show the other on your next turn. With 6, you proclaim game strength at once, making sure the side doesn't stop below it except for a very profitable business doubling chance.

Add Sweets To Dessert Repertoire

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

Here are more sweets to add to your dessert repertoire.

Pistachio Parfait is a springtime dish (nice for a wedding buffet, too.) For three pints use one-half cup sugar, one-half cup water, two egg whites, pinch of salt, one and two-thirds cups evaporated milk, one-half cup finely-chopped pistachios and one-half to three-fourths teaspoon almond extract. Bring sugar and water slowly to a boil. Boil rapidly until syrup spins a thread. Add salt to egg whites and beat until stiff but not dry. Pour syrup slowly into egg whites, beating constantly. Chill. Chill milk thoroughly, then whip until very stiff. Fold in the cold egg white mixture, pistachios and flavoring. Pour at once into cold freezing trays with temperature controls set at lowest point, or the mixture may be frozen in decorative paper cups for individual serving. About one and one-half to two hours will be required for freezing.

Tempting Dessert.

Chocolate Tapioca Cream is a really tempting dessert. The recipe given serves eight. Use one egg yolk, four cups milk, four tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, two-thirds cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, two squares unsweetened chocolate, cut in pieces; one egg white and teaspoon vanilla. Mix egg yolk with small amount of milk in top of double boiler. Add tapioca, sugar, salt, chocolate and remaining milk. Place over rapidly-boiling water and cook about 10 minutes after water boils again, stirring frequently; then beat with rotary egg beater until chocolate is thoroughly blended. Remove from fire. Beat egg white until just stiff enough to hold shape. Fold hot tapioca mixture gradually into egg white. Cool; mixture thickens as it cools. When slightly cool, add vanilla, and chill. Serve in sherbet glasses. Garnish with whipped cream. Sprinkle with plain or toasted cocoanut or grate chocolate over top.

Strawberry Fluff is made with two cups water, one-third cup quick-cooking tapioca, three-fourths cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, two cups crushed strawberries, one tablespoon lemon juice and one egg white. Combine water, tapioca, sugar and salt in saucepan and mix well. Bring mixture quickly to a full boil over direct heat, stirring constantly. Remove from fire. Mixture will be thin. Do not overcook. Add strawberries and lemon juice. Beat egg white until just stiff enough to hold shape. Fold tapioca mixture gradually into egg white. Chill, stirring occasionally. Mixture will thicken as it cools. Pile into sherbet or parfait glasses. Garnish with whipped cream and top with strawberries, halved or whole if the fruit is choice.

LEMONS FOR COPPER

Save your leftover lemon halves for cleaning copper. Dip them in salt and rub the stained and discolored articles. Wash well in hot sudsy water, rinse with boiling water and wipe dry.

PLENTY OF CALORIES

If you don't worry over calories, put a dash of white cream cheese, blended with whipped cream, on top of your blackberry or apple pie the next time you serve it. The flavors are grand together.

A Good Blueing in your final rinse water makes white clothes WHITER!

LEADERS CAN'T AGREE ON JOBS

Some Say 3, Some Say 8 Million Unemployed Must Be Put to Work.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Will 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 new jobs bring prosperity, or must we put at least 8,000,000 of the unemployed back to work before we can put the legendary 1929 chicken in every family pot?

Private economists say an upturn providing only the smaller number of new jobs will do the trick. Labor leaders and government statisticians disagree violently and claim that the lower estimates endanger fair study of the nation's unemployment problem.

Both sides, of course, quote facts and figures in support of their contentions.

In trying to show how wide of the mark unemployment estimates of 9,000,000 to 12,000,000 may be, private statisticians compare the number of people now working with the number who held jobs in 1929. They reason like this:

According to the national industrial board, 46,744,000 persons, or 38 per cent of the population were gainfully employed in December, 1929. The population has increased by 10,000,000 since then, 38 per cent of whom should be working according to 1929 standards. Therefore we should expect employment to be 3,800,000 greater.

Government economists have attacked the logic of these private analysts on the grounds that although population has increased only 10,000,000, the number of new workers has increased by more than 6,000,000. The number of persons under 16 has decreased, one statistician claimed, while the number between 15 and 65 has risen proportionately more than the total population.

On this basis he estimated that there are 10,200,000 workers unemployed today — 6,200,000 new workers, plus 2,000,000 displaced since 1929, plus 2,000,000 which were unemployed in 1929.

SNOW CRUISER GREAT SUCCESS

LOS ANGELES—(U.P.)—Dr. T. C. Poulter, first member of the current Richard Byrd Antarctic expedition to return to this country, says the giant $150,000 snow cruiser being used by the explorers has been a great success.

"It goes over crevices, snow humps and icy expanses, bucking polar hurricanes, just as we planned," Poulter said. He designed the machine for the Armour Research Foundation of Chicago.

The scientist supervised the unloading of the huge vehicle at the Bay of Whales and put it through several tests before returning to the United States on the Norwegian freighter Bersholt.

ROOSEVELT, NOT RUNNING, RUNS FASTER THAN ALL HIS OPPONENTS

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The name of Franklin D. Roosevelt—who won't say "yes" and won't say "no"—will be offered the people in more states than that of any out-and-out contender for the presidency.

And the strange case of the man who isn't running (or is he?) dominates the political drama as the hit-or-miss campaign comes up to the crucial question of who the delegates will be.

All the bustle of the last few months was aimed at those delegates. For they alone—not the people—will decide who shall carry the banners in the war between the parties next fall.

In 13 states, the people get a chance to vote on who the delegates shall be. In seven of these states, Mr. Roosevelt's name is pinned on one slate of delegates; in Ohio a slate dedicated to Charles Sawyer is considered "Roosevelt" in fact.

Georgia Democrats have not learned yet whether they will vote in a primary election or whether party leaders will appoint their delegates. In either case, Mr. Roosevelt's name will be "in the running." In a make-believe primary held in one rural county, he got 841 votes and Garner was second with 18. But men opposed to a third term considered this no test of Georgia sentiment.

John Nance Garner of Texas, a Democrat who has thrown down the gauntlet to the third-term advocates, is offered to the voters in only five states. And even Republican Thomas E. Dewey, who has aimed his campaign directly at the people, is an active candidate in only five state primaries.

The Sun Oil Company,

Philadelphia, Pa.

Gentlemen:

We submit herewith a detailed report of the mileage tests conducted on "Nu-Blue Sunoco" on comparison with fourteen premium-priced gasolines. All gasolines for test were purchased by us at regular retail service stations in Philadelphia, Boston, Cleveland and Detroit.

These tests were made under similar conditions of load at engine speeds corresponding to 30, 50 and 70 miles per hour. The average miles per gallon obtained for "Nu-Blue Sunoco" at these three speeds and loads was not exceeded by any of the premium-priced gasolines tested.

As verified by the attached report, test conditions were such that all gasolines were handled and tested impartially.

Very truly yours,

Mauna Loa Erupting After Four Years of Quiet

VOLCANIC GLOW SPREADS OVER HAWAIIAN SKY

Seismic Activity Marked in Region Many Months; Fire Threatened.

(By United Press)

HILO, T. H.—Mauna Loa, legendary home of Madame Pelee, Goddess of the Volcano, erupted today after four years of quiet.

The long-predicted outbreak began about 11:30 o'clock last night. The skies were overcast and colored a bright orange by the brilliant red glow on the south side of the mountain, facing Hila and about 40 to 50 miles distant.

The apparent center of the glow was in a heavily wooded and brush-covered area. The eruption threatened fire to the slopes of Mauna Loa, which is 14,000 feet high.

The glow appeared to be on or near the crest of the mountain, possibly near Mokuaweoweo, the summit crater. The west side of the mountain was glowing brightly.

Dr. Thomas A. Jagger, volcanologist and observer at Kilauea, second active volcano on the island of Hawaii, commented recently that the volcano was increasingly active and was most marked at the height of sunspot disturbances on Easter Sunday.

Seismic activity, general in the region, has been marked for many months.

Dr. Jagger said the floor of the firepit, Halemaumau, had tilted considerably in the last two days.

Kilauea is about 30 miles east of Mauna Loa and its fire pit actually is a sort of plug leading into the fiery depths of the volcanic region underlying this entire section of the island, which is almost 200 miles from Honolulu on the Island of Oahu.

Actually Kilauea is a crater on Mauna Loa's sprawling flank. Mauna Loa second largest volcano in the world, is also known as the world's biggest single mountain.

Mauna Loa's last eruption lasted from November, 1935, into January, 1936. At that time it poured a wide stream of flaming lava down towards Hilo, for a time threatening the source of Hilo's water supply. Army planes bombed the flow, scoring direct hits in the lava tubes and channels which finally halted the stream.

Ohio Aeronautic Chief to Address City Kiwanians

Earl Johnson, state director of aeronautics will return to Mansfield Thursday to address members of the Kiwanis club at their luncheon meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Johnson who has been a frequent visitor here since he selected Mansfield as one of the three cities in Ohio as training centers for the Civil Aeonautics Authority's non-college pilot course, will speak on "Skyways over Ohio."

He will be accompanied by Major E. H. Jose, Chicago, Ill., private flying specialist for the CAA, who is expected to conduct final examinations for the students enrolled in the ground school sometime later this month.

The speakers will be introduced by Dr. L. D. Bonar, past president of the Richland county chapter of the National Aeronautical association.

BOY, 15, SUFFERS RELAPSE, DIES

Merrill Bowman Stricken at Home of Parents Sunday.

BUTLER—Merrill E. Bowman, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bowman, died unexpectedly at his home near Newville last night. The boy, a freshman at Butler High school, had been recovering from an attack of flu when he suffered a sudden relapse.

Surviving are his parents, three brothers, Richard, Bernard and Clyde, a sister, Gladys, and his grandparents.

The body will be taken to the home this evening, and funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Newville Methodist church. Rev. H. E. Stout will officiate and burial will be in Bunker Hill cemetery.

BUILDING UP

Valuations Boosted $19,800 By Four Permits.

April building valuations were boosted $19,800 today with the issuance at City Hall of permits for the construction of four new residences. The permits hiked valuations for the month to $72,580.

Three of the permits went to Laser and Walker, contractors, for construction of a $5,600 residence at 182 Marlow road; a $4,600 home at 186 Marlow road, and a $4,600 residence at 73 State street. Fred Schmidt, R. D. 4, Mansfield, was issued a permit to build a $5,000 home at 75 Brickman avenue.

Charges Dropped After Lie Detector Test

Up and Down THE STREET

A blossoming cactus plant, a novel harbinger of spring in Mansfield, was brought to The News-Journal office today by Mrs. George H. Percy, 501 Forest avenue. The tiny cactus which is only three months old has one large pink flower with yellow stamens. The top of the flower stands about four inches above the pot in which the cactus is growing.

Two young Mansfielders, James Constance and Warren Morr, have learned that a kayak is a treacherous sort of boat. They tried it out yesterday on the Black Fork and both of them fell out of the canvas-covered craft. They lost their lunch, and had to build a bonfire to dry out their clothes. How they'd start a fire after an over-all ducking? The sister of one of them, perhaps foreseeing something like what happened, suggested they take along some waterproof matches. They did, much to their eventual advantage.

* * *

There's one Mansfield attorney who was probably out hunting a parking place for his automobile today. He helped to increase the municipal court's traffic forfeiture fund by $11 this morning when he appeared at police headquarters with 11 tickets issued to him in the past several weeks for parking violations. He had been summoned by the traffic clerk.

Mansfielders planning to visit Washington, D. C. to witness the annual blooming of cherry blossoms there, are advised to made the trip to the capital city this coming week-end if they want to see the trees in full bloom and at their best. PLANE COLLISION KILLS 2 PILOTS

Start Investigation of Crash Partly Due to Rainy Weather Sunday.

SIDNEY, O.—(U P)—An investigation of an airplane collision Sunday in which two young pilots were killed near Sidney was started today by Frank Estill, district inspector for the civil aeronautics authority.

Robert E. Shrader, 28, of Dayton, and Jack Whitmer, 19, of Tippecanoe City, O., were killed in the collision at low altitude during a slow rain.

Shrader was burned badly when his ship came down in flames. Whitmer's plane came down 100 yards away, almost hitting the farm home of Fred Boyer, a half mile west of Anna.

Herbert Blue, a farmer, told Estill that Shrader's plane seemed to swoop down on the other. Both were flying low because of the weather.

They took off from the Dayton municipal airport at Vandalia, Sunday morning. They stopped at Greenville and Lima and were returning to Vandalia.

The pilots had solo flight certificates and were reported to have about 35 hours' flying experience to their credit.

Estill said the planes were flying too close together for safety.

TESTS THROW NEW LIGHT ON KIDNAP CASE

Suspect's Attorney Surprised By Action of Paulding Prosecutor.

(By United Press)

PAULDING—Kidnaping charges against Sylvester Wisda, 21, of Sherwood, were dismissed today by Judge Mervin L. Day at the request of Prosecutor Wolmer D. Rekeweg, who said that lie detector tests had placed a new light on the case.

Wisda was accused of being a party to the purported abduction of Richard Ball, 19, a farm youth, last Jan. 27. Oscar Ball, the youth's father, had been released by authorities after he killed Louis Strake, 33, the other party to the alleged abduction.

Prosecutor Rekeweg said he asked that the indictments against Wisda be nolle prossed because of lie detector tests given at Toledo to Wisda and Richard Ball. It was understood further tests would be given other witnesses.

George Barnett, Wisda's attorney, said the action was taken without his knowledge.

Surprised.

"I'm surprised that the prosecution released a statement regarding the results of Wednesday's lie detector tests and asked that the indictment be nolle prossed," he said. "He and I had agreed with Inspector Eggert of the Toledo crime laboratory to withhold action and information regarding the outcome of the tests until further lie detector tests had been given to other witnesses who appeared before the grand jury last January."

At the time of the investigation of Strake's death in January, authorities said he was killed by Oscar Ball as Strake stood in the barnyard with Richard Ball fired with deadly accuracy from the house.

Wisda was not present at the time of the shooting but witnesses testified he and Strake had taken Richard away from the farm earlier in an alleged extortion attempt. Wisda first pleaded guilty to the kidnaping charge and later changed his plea to innocent.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Speaking for Myself.

I don't mind movie stars coming to New York for the sake of getting some publicity, but the ones who drive me daffy are those who insist that they're here incognito, then spend all their waking hours in bistros where the columnists are thicker than flies in a Calcutta kitchen.

Gene Autry once came to New York "incog" and his first day he turned up at a Yankee Stadium ball game, wearing powder blue jodhpurs, a matching Western jacket, and a ten gallon hat. I guess incognito meant he didn't ride in on a horse.

Whenever I step into the Brevoort Supper club it always makes me think suddenly of Paris . . . I envy people who can tell a really funny story. I get wound up in a tall tale and can't remember the tag line.

All the cab drivers I know are experts on foreign affairs and I have the greatest respect for their "inside dope." I think one at 53rd and Madison is arranging peace terms with Von Ribbentrop, Chamberlain, and Stalin.

* * *

Places like Bill's Gay Nineties and the Diamond Horshoe are strictly novelty clubs to me—I'm not old enough to appreciate them. Rector's and Ziegfeld's Roof, and Fritzi Scheff don't conjure up any champagne and faded roses nostalgia for me, because I never knew the originals.

But I guess, in about ten years, things will be different. Then, some musical comedy will have a speakeasy scene, with a drunk wandering up to one of those little peek-a-boo slots and hoarsely muttering: "Benchley sent me." I'll fall into the aisles laughing. But the younger generation won't know what the gag is all about. I guess Mr. Einstein must be right about things being relative—especially mirth.

* * *

I guess Mr. Einstein will be pretty thrilled when he finds out I think he's probably right . . . I wish the Irving Berlin show, "Louisiana Purchase," were ready, because it's such fun to hum Berlin's new tunes . . . I hate alarm clocks, and I can't stay in a room in which a clock is ticking.

I giggle at those Brooklyn Dodgers fans who are already worrying about the weather for opening day—but I hope they win the pennant, even if I have no idea what it's all about. Twenty years is a long time for the poor things to wait for that little flag.

I love the way rabbits look at a safe distance, but I'm darned if I enjoy it when Russell Swann's bunny, Oscar, starts nibbling my orchids . . . I can't wait for the opening night of Laurance Olivier and Vivien Leigh as "Romeo and Juliet." That should be the earthiest balcony scene in history.

* * *

It always saddens me to see a movie in which a one time film great appears for a brief flash, doing an aimless bit . . . Women with hefty ankles shouldn't wear wedge-soled shoes . . . I always try to remember Fred Astaire's dance steps after I've seen him do them, but no dice. . . . Or, maybe, no talent.

Parlor games bore me stiff, but I can sit and listen to records for hours without yawning. Beethoven, Bach, or Benny Goodman . . . Whitey Roberts, the new comedian from Hollywood, makes me chuckle.

I'm dying to see "Keep Off the Grass"—I just keep dreaming of Jimmy Durante on the stage with a full crew of live monkeys . . .

* * *

I liked those singing radio commercials when they first came out, but now they're annoying . . . I couldn't understand why several of the better critics blasted "Liliom." Maybe because they saw LeGallienne and Schildkraut in 1921 and recalled them through the pleasant veil of memory . . . I guess you never forget a first love, theatrical or otherwise.

I want to be there when Orson Welles meets George Bernard Shaw. That would be the epitome of mutual bafflement, or perhaps mutual comprehension. .

* * *

Nothing intrigues me more than spy stories. I'd be scared to be a spy—might be able to do it out of conviction, but never for just money. (Did I say "just money?") A foreign correspondent friend of mine tells me that Europe is seething with spies.

The Germans use beautiful women as secret agents to obtain information, and almost every cabaret dancer and singer in the belligerent nations and in countries close to the war zone is engaged in a sideline of espionage—for one side or the other, or for both sides.

Sometimes they are caught—that means some night they just don't show up for the floor show.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—"Rebecca." Screenplay by Robert E. Sherwood, Joan Harrison from adaptation by Philip MacDonald and Michael Hogan of Daphne du Maurier's novel. Directed by Alfred Hitchcock. Principals: Laurence Olivier, Joan Fontaine, George Sanders, Judith Anderson, Nigel Bruce, Reginald Denny, C. Aubrey Smith, Gladys Cooper, Florence Bates, Melville Cooper.

The novel "Rebecca" was distinguished from other mystery melodramas by its haunting projection of a dead woman's influence on on the lives of her widower and his new bride. It was a tale of sinister atmosphere and suspense, tense and explosive, rich in potent climaxes and intriguing in its solution.

To make a picture of this material was a job for only one director in this industry, and David O. Selznick must have known it for he picked that man in Hitchcock, the master of screen mystery and of psychological melodrama. "Rebecca" measures up as one of Hitchcock's finest works, and in so doing scatters laurels upon all heads connected with the production.

• • •

It is a faithful transcription of the novel, except in one instance which is an improvement, and it weaves a strangely fascinating spell. Opening with the heroine's atmospheric narrative and scenes of the desolated Manderley castle, the story begins immediately to build suspense and mystery. Almost from the first, the character of Rebecca, the "heroine" who never appears, begins building likewise. It is a portrait that is fully rounded out only near the end—but to discuss that would be unfair to mystery lovers who haven't read the book.

Joan Fontaine, who used to be just "Olivia De Havilland's sister," crashes through with a memorable performance as the bewildered, frightened bride fighting a memory, and there should be no question now of her stellar rating. She overshadows Olivier until he steps out finally in the long, actor-testing "confession scene," but this is not to say his work is ever less than excellent. Miss Anderson's Mrs. Danvers the housekeeper fanatically devoted to the late Rebecca, is the other acting triumph, but Florence Bates and Reginald Denny—and the others in their less important niches—are perfect casting. The film's major fault, perhaps inevitable, is its length—two hours and seven minutes, which is a bit wearing toward the end.

• • •

"It's a Date." Screenplay by Norman Krasna from story by Jane Hall, Frederick Kohner and Ralph Block. Directed by William A. Seiter. Principals: Deanna Durbin, Kay Francis, Walter Pidgeon, Eugene Pallette, Henry Stephenson, Cecilia Loftus, Samuel S. Hinds, Lewis Howard, S. Z. Sakall, Fritz Feld, Harry Owens and his Royal Hawaiians.

This is another rave, but can I help it if Hollywood insists on making some good pictures?

Here is Deanna grown up—or almost—and she's as charming and pretty a young woman as she was a child. She's become a sparkling actress besides. She is cast as the aspiring actress-daughter of a stage star (Francis) who wins a choice role and tries to give it up when she learns her mother is counting on it. That part has a heart-tugging quality, but most of the way "It's a Date" is light-hearted, human comedy, studded with amusing situations and bright, often hilarious lines.

Kay Francis is a treat as the mamma, and Cecilia Loftus, as her companion, puts in some telling strokes. The new continental actor, Sakall, is likeable—and that goes for the whole shebang.

It's a grouch-erasing picture, a happy production for everybody in it, and for audiences most of all.

Graham Picks Yankees, Cincinnati to Repeat This Year

City's Third Annual Bowling Tournament Opens Saturday

ENTRIES began pouring in today for the third annual City handicap bowling tournament which gets under way at the Meder alleys Saturday and Sunday.

Scheduled to run on successive week-ends, Brig Young, tourney secretary, expects approximately 35 teams to participate in the event. The affair ends Sunday, April 21. Deadline for filings entries is Thursday.

Leading the group of teams is the Optimist club, defending champion. The team collected a 3043 in winning the 1939 title.

Sherm Wentz and Garrison are the '39 doubles champs, while W. Cleckner holds the single crown with a 767, and Farrell Hipp the all-events title.

Demaret Now Open Favorite

Texan's Impressive Triumph in Masters' Tournament Makes Him Top Man In National Meet.

By BILL BONI

AUGUSTA, Ga. — (AP) — Now that Jimmy Demaret is champion of the golf masters, you'd better start writing him into your book as a strong favorite—quite possibly the favorite—for the National open title which will be decided at Cleveland in June. He may be the "laughing boy" of the links, but you have to take him dead serious when the chips are on the line.

His brother-professionals certainly don't underestimate him. The best illustration that comes to mind of how highly they regard him was supplied yesterday by one of the golf wives. After congratulating Jimmy on winning the masters with a 72 hole score of 280, she said:

* * *

"I hope you won't be coming to Cleveland to play in the tournament. Couldn't you just be there as a spectator?"

* * *

Fred Corcoran, the P. G. A. tournament bureau manager, said Jimmy will make every summer tournament on the wheel.

Demaret's victory brought him $1,500. Lloyd Mangrum took second money of $800 with a 284, while Open Champion Byron Nelson's 285 gave him third and $600. Harry Cooper, Ed Dudley and Willie Goggin bracketted at 287, while Craig Wood, Sam Snead and Henry Picard wound up with 288's.

Demaret the person is an easy man to describe. He's colorful, he has the biggest and readiest grin this side of the Grand Canyon, and he has a tremendous flair for making friends. He can cut loose with one of those ear-to-ear smiles after sinking a putt, and immediately have everyone who's seen that smile on his side.

* * *

Demaret the golfer is something else again. There isn't anything overwhelmingly spectacular about any part of his game.

His secret, we believe, is the natural ease and grace with which he hits everything. The day's nearest approach to the "Old Masters"—Jones, Hagen, Sarazen. He also is amazingly accurate.

Collects 717 To Take Lead

North Canton Bowler in First Place at Marion.

MARION—(U.P.)—A. Martin of North Canton bowled within four pins of the meet record to post a score of 717 and take over the singles leadership today of the Ohio Inter-City pin tourney at the end of its fifth week-end.

* * *

His score displaced D. Cardina of Painesville from the singles top. Martin also rolled 1943 to grab third place in the all-events division. G. Evans of North Canton took second in this class with 1968.

* * *

The Peoples Ice and Supply team from Warren swept into first place in the team division with 3041.

The three top leaders in the doubles division were unchanged but A. Martin-G. Evans of North Canton took fourth with 1283.

While the Mansfield Tires teams competing in the tourney Saturday night, failed to disturb the leaders, several of the team members came in with nifty scores.

Bill Fenn set the pace with a 638, and followed with a 624 in the doubles. His first score came in the five-man event. Others breaking 600 were L. Wolf 630, Bart Haley 627, W. A. Weekland 612, and J. Leathers 605.

Find Alleys To Be Tough

Even Old Timers Admit A. B. C. Lanes Hard to Beat.

DETROIT—(AP)—Even the old-timers are convinced by this time that the shiny new alleys at the American bowling congress are about as tough as they come.

* * *

The tournament, entering its second and final month, still is producing lower than average scores all down the list in the team event, in spite of onslaughts by some of the best quintets in the country.

* * *

Week-end rolling failed to produce a single major change in the team standings.

The only change in the high five standings Sunday was a 715 in the singles by a newcomer to the A. B. C., alois "Porky" Penzenstadler, of Oshkosh, Wis., 30-year-old hockey and baseball player.

The Wilbur Sanders — Howard Sanders team from Middletown, O., held fifth place in the doubles with 1,278.

NAMED ON ALL-STARS

READING, Pa. —(AP)— Tommy Lucas of Akron, O., has been named on the all-star team of the National Y. M. C. A. basketball tournament.

Discuss Possibilities Of An All-Star Contest.

One of the important questions coming up for discussion at the Ohio State league meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Wednesday night is the possibility of staging an All-Star game in midseason. The contest will be held in the home grounds of the club in first place. League officials will also discuss the new rule concerning the release of players. In past seasons when a club released players it notified the circuit president and the head of the National Association of Professional ball. This year each team releasing a player must also notify the other clubs in the circuit. It marks the first time a league meeting has been held in Mansfield.

Win Berths In Moose Tourney

Wayne Hursh, Carl Heilman Roll 699, 697 Totals to Take 4th and 5th.

DAYTON—Two Mansfield bowlers cracked their way into fourth and fifth places in the singles division of the fifth annual National Moose bowling tournament here yesterday with remarkably good totals of 699 and 697. Wayne Hursh compiled the former mark with games of 206, 195, and 232, and a 66 pin handicap, while Carl Heilman connected for counts of 175, 186 and 201, together with a 135 pin handicap.

In the doubles competition tops for Mansfield was a 1237 total. It was registered by two teams. The John Carr-Martin Reindt combination, and the John Bernat-A. Laird duo.

DAYTON—(AP)—Earl Bloom of Middletown held top position in singles standings of the National Moose bowling tournament today by rolling a fancy 716 to nose out C. Reiger fo Dayton.

The Ade's Cafe squad of Dayton led the field of teams last night with a 3,141 total. Middletown's Moose No. 2 team was fifth with 3,079.

Thomas and Jacka of Bryan, O., were ahead in doubles with 1,375.

Nice Thing About Grapefruit League—Everybody Can Win

ONE of the nicest things about baseball's spring grapefruit league is that every team in it can be a winner—and if a couple of the members step lively in the final week of the campaign all accomplish it.

* * *

By the simple medium of picking up victories against minor league clubs in the no-always leaguec lubs in the no-always sunny southland can offset the defeats they hand each other.

* * *

As a result the only two clubs right now with a less than a 50-50 break in the won and lost column are the Cincinnati Reds and St. Louis Cardinals.

The Reds, who have played 20 of their 23 games against big league opponents, are only one victory short of the even-Stephen standard and the Cardinals are within shooting range at 12-15.

Most of the teams made use of the minor league device last week to make a great forward spurt in the percentages. The Washington Senators, New York Yankees, and Brooklyn Dodgers all won five out of six and the Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Cardinals captured four out of five starts.

The Chicago Cubs, however, lost four out of five, all against major league rivals.

* * *

The clubs will reach their home ports this week and some of them will have city series for a climax.

* * *

The St. Louis Browns now head the standings with 11 wins and 3 losses, followed by the Yankees with 11 and 8. Cleveland's Indians have won 15 and lost 8.

Pitchers, Catchers Report for Training

Mansfield Braves' Prospects Ready to Open Sessions At Fairground Wednesday.

By CHARLES MARTIN

SPRING training sessions for the Mansfield Braves' pitching and catching departments replace the rookie school at the Fairground Wednesday.

With some 21 scheduled to report, Manager Dewey Stover is anxiously waiting the arrival of several new prospects he hopes will add strength to the mound corps.

Wednesday's opening affair will also see several of the youngsters from the school battling for berths in both departments. Stover will pick out the best prospects at Tuesday's workout.

* * *

Rain and cold weather has hampered Stover's efforts to have the talent at the school go through their paces, but a week of warm weather will allow the hurlers to cut loose so the Braves' manager can start rounding out his roster.

* * *

The balance of the Mansfield club will report to Stover Wednesday, April 17.

Pitchers coming in are Robert Arnold, Eugene Stocksdale, Richard Farkas, Frank Kress, Don Dudley, Joe Howell, Dick Otto, Morton Partovich, Stan Kudelvitz, George Laurilla, Charles Kotowski, Frank Ambroski, and Ralph Carver. Lloyd Joyce, a member of last season's staff, informed Stover he would be unable to report until next week.

The backstops are Joe Sandrin, Robert Tallman, Dan Ehrmin and Tom Mangan.

Early Check-Up Indicates Reds, Yanks Are Tops

Believes Red Sox, Cleveland Will Give Champions Trouble, Cardinals to Test National Club.

By DILLON GRAHAM

NEW YORK—(AP)—A month spent hopping about the Florida palm and palmetto belt observing the big league baseball clubs in spring training has convinced me that the Yanks and Reds are again the class of the majors.

Cincinnati may have a dog-fight all the way with the St. Louis Cardinals, but the Reds should win by a nose—maybe Ernie Lombardi's schnozzle—just as they did last season.

The Yanks should have an easier triumph but their margin may be smaller than in any recent year, for Boston and Cleveland have strengthened their offensive.

With the start of the season still a few days off—and anything likely to happen during the long summer chase—here's the way the pennant races look to me:

American—1. New York. 2. Boston. 3. Cleveland. 4. Detroit. 5. Chicago. 6. Washington. 7. Philadelphia. 8. St. Louis.

National—1. Cincinnati. 2. St. Louis. 3. New York. 4. Brooklyn. 5. Pittsburgh. 6. Chicago. 7. Boston. 8. Philadelphia.

The Yanks go to bat with the same club that won the world championship last summer, plus some new young pitchers. Boston expects Dominic DiMaggio, the rookie outfielder, to add power to its attack but the Red Sox's real hope lies in a group of young tossers. If Herb Hash, Jim Bagby and Woody Rich come through to aid Joe Cronin's other regulars, headed by Old Man Mose Grove, the Bostons might give Joe McCarthy's gang a fit.

Cleveland looks stronger with a fine keystone combination in Ray Mack and Lou Boudreau, an improved outfield and a pitching corps that may be hard to beat. The Indians have probably the best pitcher in baseball in Bob Feller, who may hit the 30 mark this year.

Detroit has too many doubtful spots. Hank Greenberg and Rudy York have yet to prove themselves as big leaguers in the outfield and at first base. Charles Gehringer is ailing. Dick Bartell is aging. And, after Buck Newsom and Tommy Bridges, the pitching is uncertain. Chicago and Washington are about in the same class with the Tigers and this trio should battle it out for fourth, fifth and sixth positions. Seventh and eighth positions are reserved for the Athletics and the Browns.

St. Louis has more power than any other National league club and the Cards made a great fight for last year's championship. They may win this time. But from this corner the Reds seem a little stronger, chiefly because of a better infield and a couple of guys named Walters and Derringer.

Perhaps Walters and Derringer won't win 52 games between them as they did in 1939 but Deacon Will McKechnie has Junior Thompson, Whitey Moore and John Hutchings to take up the slack. Vince DiMaggio and Mike McCormick offer better protection in left field.

The Cardinals' infield problem is apparently as unsettled now as a year ago. Manager Ray Blades has a flock of young pitchers who may come through but they can't be counted on.

The Giants, a poor fifth last year, may be the loop's surprise team. The pitching appears better than anyone had expected. And Terry seems pleased with his quartet of rookies — Infielders Babe Young, Mickey Witek and Glen Stewart and Outfielder John Rucker. On a hunch we're selecting the Giants to finish third.

Brooklyn's pitching and outfield troubles likely will hold the Dodgers down to fourth. The Pirates, with new blood in the outfield and several good looking young pitchers working under frisky Frank Frisch, should move up a notch to fifth, with the Cubs, Bees and Phillies following in that order.

It's been 14 years since Chicago finished out of the first division, but the Cubs will surprise me if they climb above sixth.

POCKETS $1,089.35

MITCHELL, Ind. — (AP) — Phil Gottron of Fremont, O., pocketed $1,089.35 in prizes today as runner-up in the annual five-day Jenkins Brothers Flyer championship skeet tournament. Phil Miller of French Lick, Ind., took top money of $1,134.

SALESMAN WINS MIDWEST AMATEUR GOLF TITLE

FRENCH LICK, Ind.—(AP)—A Cincinnati sporting goods salesman, Gus Novotny, is the new Midwest Amateur golf champion.

Going into the last round of the three-day, 54-hole event yesterday with a 147, he scored a pair of 38's—two over par—on the final 18 holes for a 223 and the crown.

Rookies After Mound Berth

Naymick, Jungels Hop Into Pitching Picture.

* * *

A lame arm forced Milnar to pull out of the scene in the second inning yesterday after the New York Giants had tallied two runs.

* * *

Naymick stepped in and held the Terrymen to one run and one hit for the next five frames while Jungles topped the day off with a hitless and scoreless turn of two innings on the Indian mound.

The Indians lost the game, 3 to 2, although they outhit the Giants, 11 to 6. The National leaguers got their winning run off Naymick in the third on a walk, stolen base and an error by Hal Trosky.

Milnar's lame arm was not regarded as serious upon an X-ray examination after the game. He has tentatively been assigned to pitch the Indians home openers against Detroit on April 19.

Russ Peters, filling in for the injured Lou Boudreau at shortstop, paced the Indian hitters with a double and two singles yesterday.

Bob Feller of the Tribe was to pitch against Harry Gumbert of New York in today's game. Manager Oscar Vitt said that Boudreau would return to the lineup for four or five innings today to test out his healing ankle.

CHAPTER X

Elaine watched him go, wondering with an amused smile whether this was a signal for her to rush over to him and plead for forgiveness. When he turned his head to look back, she was sure of it. Laughing, she dismissed the incident from her mind. There were more important things to thing about.

Elated at the way her interview with Monticelli had turned out she walked swiftly down the street, heels beating a brisk tattoo on the pavement. As she turned into the last block she was wondering whether it wouldn't be better for her to look for a position other than the one at the Blanchard store. Surely she didn't need that, now that she did not have to worry about paying for her lessons. Another thought entered her mind. If she took the job at the Blanchard store she would probably be filling a position they didn't need filled. Clara's father would do anything in the world for his daughter; perhaps he was giving her the job simply because Clara has asked him to.

As she walked up the steps she came to a decision. If her search for a job proved fruitless she would then go over to the Blanchard store. Opening the front door with the key Jane had given her, she decided to ask Melvyn's sister her opinion concerning this.

The living-room was dark and still as Elaine stepped into the apartment. The shades on all three windows had been drawn as she fumbled along the wall for a light button she could hear heavy breathing coming from the direction of the couch. She wondered why Jane had chosen to go to sleep there instead of in the bedroom, and then, thinking she had fallen asleep while awaiting her return, a smile quirked the corners of her lips. Apparently Jane took her duties as a roommate very seriously.

Her groping fingers failed in their quest for the light button. Remembering there was a lamp standing close to the piano, she walked over towards it. In the dark room she failed to see the chair that obstructed her path and before she was aware of her danger she bumped heavily into it and fell with a thud to the floor. The impact brought a cry from her lips Before she could reassemble her scattered wits a click sounded behind her and the room was suddenly filled with a soft light.

"Elaine!" a startled masculine voice exclaimed from the couch.

She looked quickly around and as she discovered the identity of the man who was rushing at her assistance, her eyes grew round with surprise. Too incredulous to speak, she could only sit there, conscious of a dull pounding of her heart, conscious of love and anger warring within her trembling body.

"Eric!" she cried, finally finding her voice. "What are you doing here?"

"Are you all right?" he asked anxiously, helping her to her feet.

Elaine nodded her head, trying to guess the reason for his presence and then, noting he still held her in his arms, she drew herself free, cheeks coloring.

"You haven't answered my question," she reminded, walking across the room and seating herself on the couch. "Why are you here?"

He ran his hand nervously through his dishevelled hair as he sat down beside her. "I suppose I did have a nerve coming here like this. If mother knew about it she would be furious. I'm supposed to be in Canada on a sort of business trip. Aunt Ella gave me your address before I left. I decided to take a chance on your being here and came on over. Your roommate told me she didn't know when you would be back. She had to go out but was kind enough to let me sit here and wait for you."

His voice became husky with emotion. "I—I still love you, Elaine!"

* * *

Had he uttered those words two weeks ago Elaine knew she would instantly have been transported to the seventh heaven of delight, but recalling the callous manner in which she had been discarded, she laughed scornfully.

"You have a strange way of proving your love, Eric."

He sighed. "I guess I deserved that, Elaine. I acted like a cad."

"So what?" Elaine's eyes blazed as all the anger and hurt she had somehow managed to suppress during the last few weeks rose to her milling brain.

"You love me, yes; but you love your mother and money more. Oh, I don't blame you, Eric. Had you married me you would have lost everything. But you and your mother could at least have taken the trouble to find out if I really was drunk that night. The Reardons can't condemn a person with just a snap of their smug, complacent fingers, Eric!"

"Elaine!" Eric sprang from the couch, his face pale and drawn. "You mustn't say things like that. It isn't like you."

Elaine knew she was behaving badly, knew too that nothing would be gained by angry words, but the realization of this only had the effect of heightening her anger.

"Oh, isn't it?" she cried, laughing bitterly. "Well, I learned my lesson, Eric. When a girl tries to be sweet and simple and sincere, she gets kicked around like a football. I've had enough of that, thank you. From now on I'm going to be as cruel and heartless as the Reardons!"

He shook his head sadly and took a nervous step towards her. "I know how much I've hurt you, Elaine. That's why I came here tonight. I came to ask if you could forgive me and become my—my wife."

"Eric!" Suddenly Elaine was in his arms, anger ebbing from her body, leaving her breathless and limp in his embrace. Dazed with surprise and sudden happiness, she rested her head upon his shoulder, unable to think, let alone speak.

"Do you really mean that?" she queried, finally finding her voice. "I—I couldn't stand being let down again, Eric."

"I'll never let you down again," he breathed into her ear. "We can be married right here in New York. We wouldn't have to let mother know about it at first. Later on, when she sees how happy we are, she'll . . ."

"No, Eric," Elaine interrupted gently, placing a forefinger gently upon his lipe. "I want to be proud of our marriage. I want the whole world to know about it. I could never be happy if we had to hide it from any one."

* * *

A frightened look came into his eyes and Elaine felt a cold chill clutch at her heart. Once again Eric was being forced to choose between his mother and herself, and Elaine, watching the fear, the doubt steal across her face, felt herself quivering with suspense. The room seemed to have become charged with an electric tension and she had the strange feeling that she and Eric were standing at the crossroads of their lives; that she and Mrs. Reardon were waging their final battle for his love.

His arms slowly tightened around her and his voice when he made his decision was husky and vibrant. "Elaine, when I'm with you nothing else in the world seems to matter. I'll telegraph my mother tonight. If she disinherits me we'll be married anyway. I'll find a job right here in New York. We won't have much at first, but . . ."

"We'll have each other," Elaine finished happily, and there were happy tears in her eyes as his lips came down to claim hers, but tears didn't matter now. All that mattered was that he loved her, that he was caressing her, that he was going to marry her.

"I'll get a job too," she told him gaily, "then we'll have two breadwinners in the family."

"Oh, you won't have to work," hes aid confidently. "Once mother learns that we're going to marry she'll come across with a good check." He tugged playfully at her hair. "But what about your singing? Aunt Ella told me you were going to Monticelli for an audition. What does he think of your voice?"

"He thinks I have talent," Elaine told him happily. Then, remembering that her whole life was going to be changed, a troubled expression passed over her face. "Eric, you wouldn't mind if I took lessons from him, would you? I never took my voice seriously, before this afternoon, but after I had sung for him I felt suddenly that I wanted to sing. And Mr. Monticelli thinks I can become a great singer if I wok hard at it."

"You can do anything you want to," he said generously. "That is, so long as you marry me." He kissed her long and tenderly, and sighed. "I've got to be going, Elaine. I have an important engagement."

She drew herself free from his arms and smiled as he picked up his Panama hat and walked towards the door. "You'll send that telegram tonight, Eric."

He nodded decisively. "Tonight." He opened the door, paused before it for a moment and slowly rapped his knuckles on the panel, "for luck."

The door closed softly behind him.

THEATERS

TWO of the principal roles in "Four Sons," the story of a family's life in the Germany of post World war years, were filled when the studio cast Alan Curtis for the part of Earl and Nancy Kelly for Anna. . . . Mischa Auer, famous comedian, will play an important role in Elsa Maxwell's "Public Deb No. 1." The comedy drama deals with the trials and tribulations of the nation's society glamor girls. . . . Maude Fulton's play, "The Brat," will be Jane Wither's next vehicle. The story has been set at the turn of the century and deals with a youngster from the wrong side of the tracks.

* * *

Ranch Life.

The story of "Of Mice and Men" was transferred to the screen from a script based on the Broadway stage hit and dramatizes the life of the "bindle-stiffs," or migratory workers on Aguora Ranch in California. Against a pictorial background this story which is portrayed at the Madison theater now highlights the careers of two men, George and Lennie. It shows the hopes and dreams, the drama and tragedy, the humor and pathos of these central figures; it details ranch life and its vast implications for those humans who go from job to job on the path to nowhere.

* * *

Edison—the Boy.

Thomas Alva Edison, America's greatest inventor, will be revealed to the public not familiar with his boyhood when "Young Tom Edison," starring Mickey Rooney as Tom, is seen this week at the Ohio theater. In fact, the picture shows that the kindly Wizard of Menlo Park was Andy Hardy, Tom Sawyer and one or two of the Dead End Kids all rolled into one.

* * *

Love Moratorium.

A romance moratorium of six months, designed to prove that two people are worthy of each other's love, is the basis for much of the drama in "Love Affair," co-starring Irene Dunne and Charles Boyer at the Majestic theater, beginning Tuesday. The second big picture to be seen there at the same time is "Jamaica Inn," with Charles Laughton in his strangest role. The picture is based on the best seller by Daphne du Maurier.

* * *

Romantic Comedy.

Peggy Moran, beautiful and talented daughter of Earl Moran, noted magazine artist, portrays a runaway heiress in the musical drama "Oh, Johnny, How You Can Love," which is showing at the Ritz theater, with Tom Brown, Allen Jenkins and Juanita Quigley also in the cast. A girl, a man and a vision comprise what is probably the screen's strangest romantic triangle. All this happens in "Four Wives," which is also being seen at the Ritz.

* * *

Drama and Comedy.

Showing at the Park theater is "Goose Step," one of the most daring pictures ever produced. Among the high spots of this picture are scenes showing how the illegal underground printing presses operate and how the determined anti-Nazis disseminate literature which, they hope, will put an end to the infamous dictatorship under which the German nation is staggering to its doom. The co-feature is Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy in "The Flying Deuces."

Planning a Garden?

Plants, Like Human Beings, Benefitted By Vitamins

By ROBERT E. GEIGER
(AP Feature Service Writer)

Techniques in plant culture and feeding developed in the last two years or so are making gardening an exciting adventure.

Chemical agriculture, the growing of plants without soil, still is in an experimental stage, but the amateur with only a limited space can find pleasure in it.

SEVENTH IN A SERIES

Another recent development is the use of vitamin B1, which followed upon the discovery a few years ago that plants, like human beings, manufacture a hormone secretion that speeds up growth. Only since last fall has vitamin B1 been on the market.

There now seems to be no doubt of its nutritional value for many plants that do not themselves produce enough B-1. Most flowers and shrubs are in this group. The economic plants—peas, corn, tomatoes, beans and other intensively cultivated crops—are not improved by it.

Experiments indicate the vitamin will aid delicate plants suffering from nutritional deficiencies. But its greatest promise is in the field of transplantation, repoting and propagation and in producing plants and blooms of extraordinary size.

Plants, even trees, have been dug up; the soil washed from their roots and a bath of B1 solution applied. They have thrived, whereas other plants transplanted in the same root-shocking manner, but without the bath, have died or were crippled.

The cost of the vitamin is well within the budget of most gardeners: $1 buys a season's supply for a small plot.

Use of B-1 is so new that amateur gardeners may play an experimenter's role in the use of it. Undoubtedly they will discover advantages not yet noted by the experts.

Tomorrow: Killing Insects.

Household Goods For Sale

Sale of Flower Pot Stands and "Easy Gro" Pots. While They Last.

"Easy Gro" pots make plants thrive. When the plant is watered, excess moisture collects in a reservoir at bottom. Roots of the plant extend through perforations in a disc and absorb additional moisture as needed. This prevents souring of earth which kills plants.
The stands are a thing of beauty holding 2 to 4 plants and come in many designs and colors. Pots are also in colors to match the stands.

IRREGULARITY INVADES AFTER FIRM OPENING

American Shipbuilding Hits New High in Market; Bonds Moderately Higher.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Mild irregularity came into the stock market today after a fairly firm opening

American shipbuilding touched a new year's high and improvement was registered for General Motors, Boeing, Glenn Martin, Anaconda, Allied Chemical, Goodyear and J. I Case.

Bonds and commodities were moderately higher. European Securities markets generally pointed downward.

Boardrooms studied the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said demand for the metal was being sustained mainly by increased exports.

Holders of Motors were encouraged by reports from Detroit that the long-delayed spring upturn in automotive production was expected to start this week

Figures of the department of commerce disclosed United States exports for the six months ended in February jumped 33 per cent over the corresponding period the year before. Imports also were up 27 per cent.

A German freighter which passed Lyrodden was not halted.

The British and French ministers Sir Cecil F J. Dormer, and Andre Dampierre, delivered notes to the foreign office at 6 a. m—an hour after the mining was announced to the world by radio—informing the government that the mines had been laid in Norwegian waters and stating the reason for the action

Shipping quarters were thrown into greatest confusion. Excitement and tension prevailed throughout the country, and the people speculated on the possible results of what was regarded as a sensational violation of Norwegian neutrality

A heavy British naval watch, it was indicated, was ready to prevent any Norwegian attempt to sweep the mines clear.

Independent Control of Foreign Commerce Proposed

REPUBLICANS IN HOUSE SUGGEST 15-MAN BOARD

New International Trade Plan Developed as President Gets Reciprocal Bill.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Creation of an inependent agency to direct America's foreign commerce was suggested by president Republican congressmen today even before President Roosevelt had signed the administration bill extending the reciprocal trade program

Republican members of the house ways and means committee asked appointment of a special 15-man group to give congress recommendations for "a permanent tariff and foreign trade program along specified lines."

This new system the committeemen proposed would be administered by an independent agency which would take over certain functions of the tariff commission and the state department It would be designed to promote "the greatest possible trade with foreign nations while . protecting domestic producers from unfair foreign competition in the home market"

The Republican plan was put forward while the commerce department was announcing that during the first six months of the European war United States exports increased 33 per cent in value over 1938-39 levels Shifts in type and destination of exports, however, were emphasized

Although there was no indication whether their new trade idea would be considered by congress at this session, Republicans held strong hope of forcing prompt action on legislation to forbid further treasury purchases of foreign silver.

The senate will take up several appropriation measures this week while the house will consider minor legislation

Inmate of O. S. R. Named in $7,500 Car Crash Suit

A $7 500 damage suit was filed in common pleas court today against Paul Paraske, Mansfield, who is serving a one-to-20-year term in the Mansfield reformatory for manslaughter as the result of the death of an Akron man in a traffic crash last Nov 18 west of Mansfield.

The suit was filed by Thomas Armstrong, Akron, who was riding in the car in which John M. Irvin, Akron Boy Scout leader, was fatally injured.

Armstrong, who suffered head injuries, contends Paraske was driving too fast and on the wrong side of the road when his car collided with the one in which the Akron men were riding The accident occurred on route 30 N west of Mansfield

Paraske was sentenced to the reformatory last December by Judge C H Huston in common pleas court on a second degree manslaughter count.

ROAD WORKERS' HOURS EXTENDED

45 Employes Return to 40-Hour Basis as County Receives Gas Tax Money.

About 45 county road employes went back to work today on a 40-hour week basis after the county received $10,000 from the state in gas tax money to help finance the road program

County Engineer Howard Sword said a 35-hour schedule usually in effect only during the winter months was extended a month this year because of lack of operating funds

The county was forced to borrow $10 000 in March to meet the workers' payroll

No decrease in the amount of state road funds the county will receive was anticipated, but the allocation was delayed this time, the engineer said.

Also contributing to the department's pinched financial condition was the heavy WPA work schedule the county has maintained for the past year, using up its surplus funds

County road construction must be curtailed during the summer because funds to continue the extensive WPA program are not available the engineer said

DRIVEN OUT

Girl-Chasing Suspect Ordered Out of Richland County.

Released yesterday from the county jail after serving out a $5 fine and $10 costs imposed on a conviction for trespassing, Charles Zybac, 52, who was accused of chasing a 13-year-old Springfield township school girl with a club was taken to the eastern edge of the county by Sheriff E P. Long and told to "keep going"

County authorities sent Zybac's fingerprints to the F B. I and learned that he had been involved in nothing more serious than vagrancy charges

Deputy sheriffs said they were never convinced he chased the girl with a club as she claimed, unless it was because several children returning from school had been teasing him

Zybac was brought to the county jail March 28 by two Springfield township farmers after the girl reported he ran after her as she was returning from school at Ontario

Bob Swanson picks his racing cars for speed — his cigarettes for slow burning

HERE THEY COME in a hurricane of flying dirt and squirting oil. You can almost hear the high whine of the motors and the shriek of brakes and burning tires as they streak into the sharp curves. They may call 'em "midget racers," but there's speed to burn underneath those toy-like hoods. Leading above is Bob Swanson, Pacific Coast champ. In a split second these racers may be climbing each other's hoods. Bob Swanson likes a slower pace in his off-time. Smokes Camels a lot. He explains: "I don't like overheating in my cigarette any more than I like it in a racing motor. I stick to Camels. I know they're slower-burning... milder and cooler."

Slower-burning Camels give the extras

EXTRA MILDNESS | EXTRA COOLNESS | EXTRA FLAVOR | EXTRA SMOKING

SPEED'S MY DISH IN A RACING CAR—BUT I WANT MY CIGARETTE SLOW-BURNING. CAMEL CIGARETTES BURN ON THE SLOW SIDE— GIVE THE 'EXTRAS' IN SMOKING PLEASURE

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

Copyright, 1940, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, North Carolina

WITH BOB SWANSON, it's always a slow-burning Camel. "That slower way of burning makes a big difference, I've found," says Bob. "Camels are milder—easy on my throat. They don't bother my nerves. They never tire my taste. And they give an extra amount of smoking, too." Yes, speed is fine in the right place, but in cigarettes the coveted extras of coolness, mildness (which includes freedom from irritation), and full, rich flavor go with slow-burning Camels.

Smokers: SAVE THE COST OF THE STATE CIGARETTE TAX

Smokers who live in communities where certain state cigarette taxes are in effect can save the cost of the tax—and, in some instances, more—through smoking Camels. (See panel above.) When you are a Camel smoker, you get this unique economy—and all the extra enjoyment of cooler, milder smoking—the fragrance and delicate taste of finer, more costly tobaccos.

GERMAN FLEET RACES TOWARD NORWAY BATTLE

Allies Tighten Blockade By Planting Mine Fields; Neutrals in Panic.

ish plot to sabotage and block the Danube river, the Reich claimed, represented an allied attempt to spread the war to both Scandinavia and the Balkans. The Allies, Germany charged had "declared war on neutrals."

Britain refused to waver, however, and said the mines and ships would stay in Norwegian waters where they were put. If the Norwegians sweep the mines away, new ones will be sown. If the Germans try to remove them, "the British navy will welcome an engagement."

German officials retored that the Reich would "accept the allied challenge." Berlin officials predicted that a German counteraction "could be taken for granted."

Furthermore, Berlin said, mere protests by Norway will not satisfy Berlin.

Cabinet Meets.

Other Scandinavian nations quaked at what the future may hold in store for them as a European battlefield. The Swedish cabinet held an emergency meeting, while the Swedish public was dumb-founded at the news. Sweden's general staff announced unspecified measures to strengthen national defense.

Holland also was shocked at the British action. Dutch officials regarded the mining of Norwegian waters as a breach of international law and "not an appropriate reply to German attacks on neutral shipping."

In Paris French military officials predicted a quick showdown between the Allies and Germany—and the possibility that Chancellor Hitler's legions might strike their first blow in Scandinavia.

In the grim foretaste of what may come on a huge scale, artillery barked and roared along the western front in renewed duels. Patrols clashed in No Man's Land while planes battled overhead.

In the Shetland islands an air raid alarm sent British pursuit planes skyward to hunt Nazi raiders. And in London the British government published a time table —which Berlin called "laughable nonsense" — purporting to show German plans for complete conquest of Europe by 1948.

The British and French asserted their move in sowing mines in Norwegian waters was in the best interests of neutral nations as well as of themselves.

FOUR SHIPS SUNK

COPENHAGEN —(UNS)—Sinking of four ships by torpedoes, mines or naval action in the narrow waters between Denmark and Norway was reported today in dispatches reaching Copenhagen.

One of the vessels was believed to be the German freighter Kreta, 2,359 tons, which radiod an SOS declaring it was being attacked by a submarine, believed to be British. First messages reaching Norwegian coastal stations indicated the ship was badly damaged and sinking. Norwegian coast guard rescuers sped to the scene.

NETHERLANDS 'AMAZED'

AMSTERDAM —(UNS)— Netherlands government circles openly expressed amazement and shock today at the action of Britain and France in laying mines in Norwegian territorial waters.

Dutch authorities deplored the allied move as a breach of international law and asserted it was "not an appropriate reply to German attacks on neutral shipping."

TRIAL TODAY

Butler School Officials Face Mayor's Court Tonight.

Three Butler school officials are scheduled to go before Mayor Russell Strong of Butler at 7:30 p. m. today on charges of assault and battery growing out of an alleged attack on L. L. Miller, a baker in the village, on March 27.

Supt. Willard Weekley of Butler schools and Robert Burgett, high school coach, will be cited on assault and battery counts, while Walter Wareham, member of the Butler board of education, is charged with assault. Atty. George Blecker of Mansfield is counsel for them.

Miller filed the charges in the mayor's court, contending that the trio attacked him when he went to Wareham's home to attempt to "straighten out" reports that he had been circulating rumors about them.

The three pleaded innocent to the charges at a preliminary hearing before Mayor Strong. They were released on bond.

VICINITY HAS NEW AUTHORS

Former Mansfielder and Butler Educator Join Ranks Of Writers.

A former Mansfield man and a Richland county resident have joined the rapidly growing ranks of authors from this vicinity.

Recently published is a fictionized "Family Crises," which deals with a few Mansfield characters. It was written by Sherlock Bronson Gass, former Mansfield school boy and now professor of English at the University of Nebraska.

Gass is the grandson of Dr. Bronson, who was rector of Grace Episcopal church when the church stood where the Public library now stands. On his paternal side, was his Grandfather Isaac Gass, prominent in early Mansfield history. His father was Florian Gass who was associated with the late Joseph Hott in the Gass and Hott book store on Main street.

"Family Crises" deals with a family in Chicago which found itself in dire circumstances at the close of the Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1892 and as a result migrated to Dayton, Ohio, to launch a laundry business. This family, presumably, is the author's own family, which went to Chicago from here.

The author is a nephew of Mrs. Marion F. Cline, formerly of the Fairview hotel and now residing in Kenton. His cousin is A. S. Cline, Mansfield. The Gass home was at 265 West Third street when they resided here.

A second book is being published by the Christopher Publishing House of Boston, and is by Clark M. Garber, of Butler.

It is titled "Legends and Stories of the Behring Straits Eskimos," and is a volume of interesting tales and photographs which Garber collected while he lived in the Alaskan country.

He was superintendent of government schools for eight years in the Land of The Midnight Sun, and since his return several years ago has lectured over the country. In his stories he tells of the every day life and customs of the Eskimos, of their culture and their folk lore.

The book will carry a preface by Dr. John P. Harrington, ethnologist of the Smithsonian Institute.

DEWEY SEEKS NEW VICTORY

ting powers in the midwest with President Roosevelt.

The New York prosecutor meets Vandenberg, whom he trounced last week to win Wisconsin's 24 delegates to the Republican National convention, in Nebraska's presidentiol preference primary.

Convention delegates are not directly at stake, but another Dewey triumph over the Michigan senator would threaten to make a "stop-Dewey" contest the dominant factor in the Republican race.

A more direct test of Roosevelt-Dewey popularity occurs in Illinois, where the president is opposed by Vice President Garner in the preferential primary.

After Endorsement.

Both Roosevelt and Dewey camps are trying to roll up huge endorsement votes.

Against the possibility of a third-term band wagon, Garnerites are battling for sufficient Illinois votes to demonstrate sizable popular opposition to departure from the traditional two-term presidencies.

Illinois sends 58 delegates to each of the national conventions. Fifty will be chosen tomorrow, and the remainder will be selected in state conventions. Nebraskans elect a full delegation of 14 to each convention. In neither state, however, are the results of presidential preference voting binding on the delegates.

The quickened efforts of Vandenberg's managers to win Nebraska's farmers and thereby stage a comeback from the Wisconsin defeat lent special importance to the outcome tomorrow.

Senator Nye (R-ND) took the stump in Vandenberg's behalf, while Senators McNary (R-Ore.) and Capper (R-Kas.), veterans of many a battle over Farm legislation, endorsed the Michigan senator as a friend of agriculture.

McNary Pleased.

McNary later replied to a telegram from Dewey headquarters that he was "pleased" with the New Yorker's "sympathy with the farmer."

The National Socialist party convention yesterday nominated Norman Thomas, one-time Marion, O., resident, as its presidential candidate and Maynard C. Krueger, 34-year-old Chicago economics professor, for vice president.

The party platform called for complete isolation from the European war, socialization of the nation's major industries and the convention approved resolutions condemning, "Hitlerism and persecution of Jews" and Britain's "imperialist domination" of India's masses.

FEAR BLOCKADE

Ship Turns Back in Mid-Ocean With Russian Cargo.

TACOMA, Wash.—(U.P.)—Fear of an allied blockade caused the American freighter Wildwood to turn about in mid-Pacific with a $4,500,000 cargo consigned to Vladivostok, F. R. Clark, president of the American Foreign Steamship Co., revealed today.

Clark arrived by plane as the Wildwood began unloading her 7,000 tons of copper, brass, and machinery owned by Amtorg, Russian trading organization, whose representatives here were to take it over.

Clark said he ordered the ship to turn back because reports to Washington embassies indicated the British blockade had been extended to Russian Pacific ports.

The Wildwood was believed the first American vessel of the war to have canceled a voyage in mid-ocean because of blockades.

Clark's arrival here followed a statement by Captain Walter Arntz of the Wildwood that the war appeared to have "hit the Pacific trade routes."

FIND TORTURE RACK IN HOUSE

Taxi Driver Confesses Part in Two Detroit Murder for Profit Cases.

was identified through dental work.

Meanwhile, Kasap and Kursawa had forged Bowman's name to a bill of sale and sold his car for $385. With this money they rented and furnished "Murder House" and while looking for new victims, dug two deep graves in the cellar and bought a quantity of quick lime.

Loyst's wife was going to have a baby and he needed money. He advertised his car for sale and Kursawa answered. They drove about for a while, Loyst demonstrating the machine, then went to "Murder House," Kursawa saying he wanted his wife to see it. Loyst was marched to the cellar and slain.

Had Intuition.

Loyst's name was forged to a bill of sale and his car brought $325. The slayers spent it all on clothes and couldn't pay the next month's rent on "Murder House" because Ralph Selden, an automobile salesman, had an intuition that Kasap was not a bonafide prospect and broke off negotiations with him.

"Murder House" was vacated and the agent found the mounds in the cellar. Police dug and found Loyst's body. Though Kasap had rented the house under an assumed name, the agent identified him in the rogue's gallery.

On March 2, Kasap walked into police headquarters and said he understood police were looking for him. They questioned him daily—sometimes 32 hours at a stretch — without getting the slightest admission out of him until yesterday.

Meanwhile, they had learned that Kursawa had been his constant companion. They traced Kursawa to Imperial, Pa., where he was arrested.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, APRIL 8, 1940.

You can't blame the British for getting a bit fed up on Yank kibitzers criticizing the way they run their war.

As was recently remarked by the Leavenworth Times: "If the adult problem were solved in the United States, the youth problem largely would disappear."

It is being urged that all candidates in both parties this year should demonstrate their fitness for the office they seek—but since when has fitness been a requirement for office-holding?

British and French Harmony

BRITAIN AND FRANCE now seem to be two nations with but a single thought, and in this harmonious mood they have made lavish pledges of co-operation not merely for the duration of the present war emergency, but forever. There is much talk on both sides of fitting their economic systems into each other, and even of merging vast commerce and colonial holdings.

It is gratifying to find such harmony in international relations, but realistic observers are likely to be rather doubtful about it. Individuals often act from motives of unselfishness and pure good will, but nations seldom, if ever. Even when nations seem to be acting unselfishly, and think they are doing so, there is usually a practical reason underneath the fine talk.

In temperament, language and character there is a natural gulf between the British and French. But if the totalitarian states hang together as they are doing now, the democracies also will have to hang together, for the good old reason that made a bond for our American colonies when they formed their union—lest "they all hang separately."

Bad Record for Secret Marriages

YOUNG FOLKS contemplating marriage, and even younger girls and boys who look forward to probable marriage at some future time, might well have their attention directed to the probable failure of secret or "runaway" marriages, and the much greater chances for success of church or home weddings.

Some convincing evidence along this line was contained in an article in Sunday's News-Journal on the divorce record of Richland county common pleas court last year, in which it revealed that ONLY 30 OF THE 141 DIVORCES GRANTED DURING THE YEAR INVOLVED COUPLES MARRIED IN MANSFIELD!

Observation and statistics extending through many years bear out the conclusion of Common Pleas Judge Charles H. Huston that "secret marriages are bad from the start, and indicate that the couples are not taking them seriously, or are trying to sneak away from something or somebody."

It may be doubted if any boy or girl, in planning a runaway marriage, deliberately and soberly contemplates the probable grief, torture and years of misery they may be bringing on themselves and their parents by such an act—or that they would thus jeopardize their future if they fully realized the dangers involved.

It should also be better understood by normal boys and girls that the examples of frequent divorces and re-marriages set by some Hollywood stars, and others who gain notoriety by such promiscuity, evidences either physical or mental abnormality or subnormality and cannot be safely accepted as a standard of behavior for regular people.

Whatever may be the fallacious preachments of Bertrand Russell and others who flout the prevailing conventions of morality and marriage, the fact remains that long experience has taught that individuals are most likely to find a reasonable degree of happiness and contentment in a family circle—and that this is best assured by a marriage that is seriously approached and that takes place with the knowledge of parents and friends and in the atmosphere of church or home.

Agriculture's Changing Trend

FEAR that conditions described in "The Grapes of Wrath" may become even more widespread is expressed in a pamphlet, "Adrift on the Land," just published by the Public Affairs Committee, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York City—forty-second in a series of factual 10-cent pamphlets being sponsored by this committee.

"Adrift on the Land" was written by Dr. Paul S. Taylor, professor of economics at the University of California and long recognized as a leading authority on agricultural labor problems.

This pamphlet deals with the progress of power farming in cotton and predicts a steady westward flow of refugees from southern cotton fields will join the mass of roving labor from Arizona to Washington.

While seasonal laborers will be used in cotton fields until mechanical pickers become available on a commercial basis, according to Dr. Taylor, even these seasonal jobs will finally be wiped out, and instead of tenants, croppers or laborers on plantations, these unfortunates will be added to the migratory army typified by the Joads in "The Grapes of Wrath."

Various Ideas About 'Hard Work'

NOT long ago a congressman spoke feelingly of the many duties, responsibilities and tribulations of a representative of the people in this great democracy. It was so heartbreaking as to make people wonder how enough citizens were persuaded to run for congress to keep the national legislature going.

A London clergyman, rector of a parish in a poor part of that great city, has compiled a list of the things a mother has to do. He based his data on twenty years in the life of the average married woman with a family of six to look after. He found she had peeled 87,600 potatoes, darned 10,400 socks and stockings, made 20,200 beds, buttered 175,200 slices of bread and kissed her family 15,000 times.

Perhaps most wives and mothers will regard the rector's list with amazement. It seems to fall far short of the full story. If that were all they had to do they would regard their lives as no harder than a congressman's, the women might say.

There are monotony and drudgery in every day life, but there are other things, too. It's poor judgment these days to complain about the hardships of one's work when there are so many who know the greater hardships of having no work at all.

As has been said before, at this season of the year, it now appears that Cleveland and Cincinnati will be leading contenders for the pennant in their respective leagues.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Probably the biggest surprise when the 1940 census figures are in will be the increase in the number of women in the labor force.

Estimates already are running around 3,000,000. That means there are 3,000,000 more jobs that are filled or could be filled by women workers than in 1930. Figuratively speaking 3,000,000 additional women in the last 10 years have turned their backs on housewifery and cast themselves on the auction block of labor.

The reasons are numerous. The depression years had a triple-play effect: (1) Dwindling family incomes drove the ladies to pounding the pavements and reading the Help Wanted; (2) when the men of the family were thrown out of work completely, the women had to find employment or the family starved; (3) thousands of marriages were postponed indefinitely and many of the brides-to-be became brides-never-to-be (their fiances "outgrew them"—finally selected younger women) and sought solace and sustenance in work.

* * *

And Furthermore—

THERE are other reasons. The spread of birth control, as evidenced by the rapidly falling birth rate, left more thousands necessarily seeking an interest in life outside the home. Contributing, too, was the great increase in housekeeping gadgets, releasing women from dawn-to-dark household duties. And the rise of "cash economy"—a realization of the saving involved in having cash on hand to purchase from stores and companies that had no credit system or made liberal discounts for cash.

There is one other factor worth mentioning: Spread of the knowledge among employers that for many jobs women are eminently better equipped and cheaper than men. The mechanical computation machine is an example. At this, women were found to be more accurate, steadier, neater, less inclined to rebel against lack of advancement, and contented with less pay than were men. There are hundreds of other fields where the same rules were found to apply. The result: a greater demand for women.

No city picked at random can be said, at this point, to be typical. And the people who expert the census experts are not basing their conclusions on South Bend, Ind., where a special census already has been taken. But it is significant that in that city of approximately 100,000, there is an increase of almost 1,000 women in the labor force since 1930.

If you are interested in social service, labor, unemployment, economics, or any of a dozen other pseudo-sciences which concern America in mass, you'll have to draw your own conclusions. I'm just telling you what the experts tell me—the big surprise in the census and the one you will be hearing and reading most about, will be this big increase in the army of women who work or want to.

* * *

A Marital Problem.

ANOTHER surprise to some (although not to those who are up on the censuses) will be that the 1940 tabulation will show a great many more married men than women in the country.

That's a honey for parlor quiz games, but the explanation is simple.

In 1930, there were approximately 200,000 more married men than women in the United States. The reason was merely that that many male immigrants had arrived who had not been able to (or being able, weren't in any hurry to) send back to the old country for their wives.

Immigration, of course, has fallen off. Thus the number of married women is approaching the number of married men.

THE FARMER IN THE DELL

Listen, World!

To the Champs!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SO YOU'RE YOUNG, are you? Laughing twenty . . . go-getting thirty . . . dynamic forty, yes? And, of course, you think you've got The Stuff.

You feel the blood beating hot in your veins and the dreams zooming wild through your mind . . . and you reckon you're the original World-Maker.

Okay, go on reckoning. And enjoying your medals. That's sly Old Mama Nature's come-on for each new generation, lest it jump its job. And at that, you're a pretty good outfit . . . possibly even 90% as good as you think you are. But—

It might be good for what ails you, partner, to remember now and then The Champs that went before. The Champs who made your role possible. The vanishing giants who didn't have all the mechanical aids and escapes which you're enjoying . . . who had to do their stuff the hard way because there wasn't any other and whose trail is still too wide and deep for most modern heels to fit.

Irving Rubine of Warner Bros. Studios told me about one of them the other day, splendid Hobart Bosworth who has taken three generations in his vital stride—and has all the calendars licked.

Remember Bosworth? And how! If you were a Gibson Girl, (I was!) There, my children, was A Guy. Acres of Guy—and all scenic. And something better than scenic—toughened. Toughened in a period of life as savage and ruthless as any the Cave Men knew. Born penniless but with the sensitive soul of a poet—barred from education—Hobart Bosworth had to find his way to the stars as best he might.

That way lay along a man-killing trail. Sailor around the Horn . . . prospector on California's "Mother Lode" in the days when the kid prize fighter who didn't know the answers went to sleep with lilies—and quick . . . "barroom swipe" on San Francisco's murderous Barbary Coast . . . still the hunger for beauty in Hobart Bosworth's soul went on.

And, as such hunger always will, if it be real and not founded on mere vanity, it found its answer.

In '85, Hobart Bosworth left San Francisco to go on tour with the Alcazar Company—and shortly to become the biggest name in early motion pictures. Years of spectacular fame. Then, at 73—depression — reverses—obscurity. Curtains? Not on your life. The other night the biggest movie party and premiere Hollywood has ever known was pulled in the old Ghost Town, Virginia City. Sixteen private cars carried the world's biggest paid stars and newspaper writers to that party. America's most expensive publicity had preceded them. But—

When the spotlight went on, it was neither Errol Flynn nor Humphrey Bogart that drew the gasp and gulp from the assembled thousands, but an old Champ who had held their hearts in his understanding hand from childhood—Hobart Bosworth. As Irving Rubine tells it, in words far better than mine:

"All the banners, all the noise in the streets and the parade became terribly unimportant when this magnificent white-haired old man strolled out on the stage of Piper's Opera House, caressed its boards with his feet and once again read the dagger scene from 'Macbeth', using once more, after fifty-five years, the same little 'yellow back' which supplied him with the lines in his earlier appearance. . . . When he finished, old Piper's rang to such applause that the aged rafters threatened to come down. He turned away from the microphone with a tear in his eye and a look of a man who had found something lost for many years."

Touches you, doesn't it? Makes you wonder maybe, if there weren't Champs before you came along.

There were!

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Take It Lying Down."

"He was perfectly right to put up a fight. No man would take a thing like that lying down."

That is a typical use of that well known phrase in common speech, "to take it lying down." It is slang, of course, but the words at times find their way into very good company.

Though the expression is typical modern slang, it is not modern in its origin. Its source is found in a passage in "The Conversion of Colonel Quagg" by G. A. Sala, which appeared originally in "Household Words" and was reprinted in a volume of "Papers Humorous and Pathetic" in 1872.

Health And Diet

Helping the Aged To Live Longer.

—By DR. CLENDENING

A BRANCH of medicine which has not yet reached the dignity of a specialty is geriatrics, which deals with the diseases of old people. Numerous doctors are interested in the subject, and it offers an opportunity for the application of specialized knowledge. It also has many rewards. No more grateful group of patients can be found; the physician who pays special attention to them will be well paid by the affection of his elderly patients.

Of course, doctors are always trying to encourage longevity. Their whole lives are devoted to that aim, although we do not know very much of the factors which cause it and have no control over the most important factor—heredity.

It is not easy to put your finger on just what the constitutional condition is which results in old age—whether it is a good system of blood vessels, a weak digestion which prevents excesses, or a continuance of interest in life itself.

Have Little Effect.

Alcohol, tobacco and other dissipations, unfortunately for the moralists, seem to have little to do with the subject. Benjamin Franklin said he saw more old drunkards than old doctors. Nor is it true that "the longer the bowel, the shorter the life."

The specialist in old age hasn't the advantage of the standards of change which the children's specialist has. The pediatrician knows month by month, and year by year, how much growth in height and weight, the development of the teeth, and change in the bodily form should be, but exactly at what period of life different senile changes should occur, is not known.

There is a loss of height and weight in old age; many organs, such as the tonsils and the appendix, atrophy; in fact, all the organs in the body lose weight. Large tonsils are far more significant at 70 than at seven. All these things mean a corresponding loss in function. There is a loss of appetite and elderly people are increasingly constipated and fatigued.

In old age symptoms which are significant in younger people may have no significance at all. For instance, a tremor may mean much in a younger person, but mean nothing in a man over 55. The reflexes of the nervous system almost entirely disappear in old age "the organs suffer in silence," to quote a great physician. A gallstone attack may occur without any pain whatever. Fever is rare.

Other symptoms are of great significance. A cough may be very serious in an elderly person, especially a chronic cough. Little pouches, diverticula, in the intestine, which give no trouble at younger levels, may flare up in the elderly. The "left-sided appendicitis" of the elderly is due to infection of these diverticula.

Skin eruptions are common and serious due to the atrophy of the skin. Certain infections are common in the elderly—erysipelas, pneumonia and whooping cough.

In treatment, drugs are treacherous in the aged, while surgery is well borne.

Pointed Paragraphs

Many a would-be jolly fellow might be really so if he would only stop telling jokes.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

(Editor's Note—The Merry-Go-Rounders have been having a first-hand look at some of the crucial primaries now in progress.)

CHICAGO—The President and Jack Garner may be good personal friends in Washington, but out here in Illinois the latter's campaign managers are pulling no punches in the bitter fight for delegates.

They are socking the Roosevelt third-term ticket with everything in the arena, including the water bucket.

Chief Garner shillalah is a four-page leaflet that is the hottest piece of compaign literature seen in these parts in a long time. It fairly sizzles, and blasts the third term and leading New Dealers more scorchingly than anything the GOP has put out. Over 2,500,000 copies have been distributed in this state and 1,400,000 were used in Wisconsin.

Principal punch in the leaflet is a four-column inside lay-out under a big-type headline, "THE THIRD TERM—WHICH GROUP WILL YOU VOTE FOR?" Then follows a caption "FOR" under which appears this list:

"Harold Ickes,	salary from the U. S. A.	$15,000
Henry Wallace,	salary from the U. S. A.	15,000
Harry Hopkins,	salary from the U. S. A.	15,000
Miss Perkins,	salary from the U. S. A.	15,000
Ben Cohen,	salary from the U. S. A.	9,000
Tom Corcoran,	salary from the U. S. A.	8,500
Jerome Frank,	salary from the U. S. A.	10,000
W. G. McAdoo,	salary from the U. S. A.	25,000
Boss Hague of New Jersey,	profits from politics—	unknown.
Boss Nash of Chicago,	profits from politics—	unknown.

"(Note—Bosses Pendergast of Kansas City and Jimmy Hines, patronage dispenser in Manhattan, are temporarily silent about a third term. They are doing their first terms in the penitentiary.)

"They and a horde of other job holders are riding the gravy train. It is a free ride and they will never get off unless we, the voters, put them off. They are for a third term, or a fourth, or a fifth."

Opposite this fusillade and under the caption "AGAINST" are four pictures — Washington, Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, and Grover Cleveland. In addition are Coolidge's famous "I do not choose to run" statement and a quote from Jim Farley: "I place my country above my party."

Court-House Dewey.

MADISON, Wis. — Dewey's sweeping Wisconsin victory was particularly striking in view of the howling faux pas he pulled here.

It occurred during the New Yorker's address before a Saturday afternoon crowd of several thousand from the steps of the great, tall-domed state capitol, of which Wisconsinites are very proud. He was lambasting the administration's failure to balance the budget, when he turned and pointed to the state house.

"I am proud," he said, "to be standing on one of the few courthouse steps that are paid for."

The capitol, built under the elder Senator Robert LaFollette, was financed by a special tax on the railroads.

Note — Dewey and Roosevelt have one thing in common—both are down on critical newsmen. In the latest Dewey campaign leaflet is a paragraph angrily denouncing such writers for "misrepresenting him and his qualifications and achievements."

* * *

Radio Alumni.

WASHINGTON — Significant fact about the radio business is the number of ex-government officials on its payroll. In no industry are they so numerous. Radio literally is studded with men who got their start to lucrative jobs as administrators of the law regulating the industry.

The list of these "alumni" of the old Radio Commission and the Federal Communications Commission is long, but here are a few of them:

Duke Patrick, general counsel of the Radio Commission in 1932 and '33, now Washington attorney for Columbia Broadcasting and a number of individual stations affiliated with the other networks, among them WLW, Cincinnati. He also is a partner of Frank Hogan, president of the American Bar Association.

Louis G. Caldwell, member of the Radio Commission, now attorney for Mutual Broadcasting, Station WGN, Chicago, and other radio interests.

Paul Spearman, former general counsel of the FCC, and Frank Roberson, his assistant, now conducting one of the busiest radio law firms in the Capital. Among their clients are the Yankee Network and Station WLAC, Nashville.

Arthus W. Scharfeld, former Radio Commission attorney, now representing Tri-State Broadcasting company, of Texas, and Station WMEX, Boston, and a number of small stations.

Ben Fisher, former assistant general counsel of both the Radio and Communications Commissions, attorney for Station WCOP, Boston, and a number of small stations.

George Sutton, former member of the engineering staff of the FCC, who studied law at night school, now looking after the interests of the Florida Broadcasting company, and Station WOKO, Schenectady, N. Y.

Eugene O. Sykes, recently resigned member of the FCC, who has joined the Spearman-Roberson law firm and will specialize in radio work.

* * *

Chastened Hero.

GEORGE A. DE COTTES of the Capitol police force will vouch for the fact that a patrolman's lot is not a happy one.

De Cottes is the handsome young cop who singlehandedly captured a gunman who had held up a liquor store. On his way home from work and unarmed, he chased the bandit into the basement of an apartment house and overpowered him. The daring exploit won De Cottes a lot of public commendation—but not from his superiors.

Reporting for work the next morning he was met by a sour-faced sergeant who informed him that "the boss" was very much displeased by his "behavior" the night before.

"But why?" gasped De Cottes. "I risked my life to uphold the law. That might have bumped me off."

"That's beside the point," snapped the sergeant. "The boss is sore because you wore your uniform home. You had no business to do that. You know that's against regulations."

Note—Six feet tall, sandy-haired and 27, De Cottes is from Jacksonville, Fla., where he studied law, has a wife and child and is ambitious to be a G-man.

Sowing Clover

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THIS morning as I went to town, I saw three different farmers sowing clover seed. The first used a wheelbarrow seeder. This device is a hollow box about three inches wide and deep and sixteen feet long. A strip of wood inside is moved back and forth to dislodge the seeds by small zigzag curves on the hub. Thirty-two feet at a round would seem to seed quite rapidly, but I have often pushed such an outfit across a twenty acre field and found it more tiring then it seemed at first.

I stopped and watched the farmer. As he approached I heard the movement of the rod and saw light sprays of seed fall evenly down upon the narrow rows of greening wheat. At the end he refilled a shiny measure from a clean muslin bag of seed and poured the contents evenly along the length of the long straight box. Then he went on. I watched until the barrow and the man seemed only a fourth their size, silhouetted against the sky, atop a knoll.

The second man was sowing with a fiddle seeder. The short sack was supported by a strap across his shoulders while beneath, a horizontal metal fan moved rapidly in one direction then the other as he pulled up and down on a rod, like a fiddler's bow. His step was in unison with his bow, and he walked like one keeping time to lively music. At the end near the road he pulled up a tall sharp stake which had a white cloth tied to its top, made eight long steps and thrust it down again into the yielding soil. He then retraced his course half way and started east. It was just sunup. I saw the seeds fall like dust, made visible by the slanting rays.

The third farmer, two miles farther on, was sowing his field by hand. A sack was tied across his back with the mouth opening to the left. His right hand held it open, while the left in rhythm with his steps, would reach into the sack take up a dainty handful and with one single outward sweep scatter it on the ground.

Sunrise and a calm spring morning. Glint of dew, blue sky, chorus of bird voices. And across the wide green fields, with rhythmic step, the humble sower, as in ages past, "goes forth to sow."

MILK COUNCIL COMPLETES ITS PLANS FOR '40

Farmers and Dairies Join to Better Herd Conditions; Adopts New Emblem.

Adoption of a new emblem and completion of plans for 1940 at a recent meeting of the Mansfield Pasteurized Milk council have been announced by Dale Wilcox, chairman of the organization.

According to Wilcox the council, during the coming year, will attempt to better its dairy herds, improve sanitation conditions and carry on a program of farm education.

Composed of more than 250 Richland county farmers and six Mansfield dairies, Isaly's, Levering's, Willson's, Miller's, Axtell's and Rowland's, the council was formed early this year to promote harmony among the producers and distributors, Wilcox added.

First steps in the year's program will be the dairy herd improvement aim and the education of the general public as to the purpose of the council.

Plans call for the identification of producer and distributor members by the posting of road signs and the use of facsimiles of the new emblem.

HITS LONG SHOT ON LICENSE TAG

WARREN—(INS)—George T. Parker of Warren has 1940 automobile license plates with the same letters and the same number his 1939 tags bore, but he got them in the face of 3,500,000-to-one odds.

After Parker discarded his old plates bearing the number G-312-E, he went to the Warren Automobile club where the clerk gave him a new pair—G-312-E.

Officials, estimated chances against getting the same license number and letters were 3,500,000 to one.

MAIL DELIVERY

Postoffice Cat Has Kittens Riding In Mail Bag.

NEW UNDERWOOD, S. D.—(AP)—The New Underwood postoffice cat is back with some "little packages" after a ride through the mails.

The cat crawled in a mail sack along with parcel post packages. Postmaster Kathleen Kochendorfer tied up the sack, sent it on its way.

Arrived at nearby Viewfield, the cat was found. Almost immediately, she became the mother of four kittens. She and her progeny were put in a box, sent back to Miss Kochendorfer.

Fraternity Plans For 2-Day Circus To Be Held at 'Y'

The first circus of the season will show in Mansfield late this month when the Phalanx fraternity of the Y. M. C. A. stages a circus for two days in the "Y" gymnasium.

The show will be held April 25 and 26 and will consist of 20 or more acts with some 125 boys and young men of the Y. M. C. A. taking part.

Most acts are to be staged by boys of the various Y. M. C. A. gym classes with the aid of Mansfield talent. Vernon Smeltzer, past president of the fraternity, is general chairman of the show, and Donald Cram, "Y" physical director, will act as director.

Rehearsals are already under way. Tickets are now being sold by members of the fraternity and the circus cast. Proceeds will be used for the physical and boy's work program at the "Y."

ESSAY CONTEST JUDGES NAMED

Three to Select Winners in Competition Sponsored by Fish-Game Group.

Three judges had been chosen today to select the winning essays in a contest sponsored by the Richland County Fish and Game Protective association.

The judges are H. L. Bigbee, Bellville banker; Jane Williams of The News-Journal staff, and Fred Elder, Senior high school teacher.

Nearly 300 pupils from the fifth to eight grades in Mansfield and Richland county schools are expected to submit essays on topics pertaining to wildlife conservation in Ohio. The contest closes April 15.

John Friday, chairman of the committee in charge of the contest, said prizes probably will be awarded at the next meeting of the fish and game association on May 7.

Cash prizes of $10, $5 and $2.50 will be awarded in two classifications, one including fifth and sixth grade entries, and the other, seventh and eighth grade contestants.

MOSS FINDS MARKET

COLUMBIA, S. C.—(U.P.)—The Spanish gray moss which hangs from trees in the coastal and swamp country is more than just picturesque scenery to many natives. Gathered from the trees and sold for upholstery purposes, the moss is worth a cent a pound. One person can gather from 100 to 350 pounds of moss in a day.

LOCKED IN ELEVATOR

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH—(U.P.)—Seven Salt Lake City police officers were locked behind bars for 10 minutes one night. An elevator they were using in the public safety building stuck between two floors and a building engineer had to be called to release the officers from the cell-like cage.

48-HOUR WEEK FOR HOUSEWIFE

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—The modern housewife would observe a 48-hour week if Roy W. Cooley, president of the National Restaurant Association, had his way.

Speaking before the annual convention of the group, Cooley suggested to the restaurateurs that "most workers are now on a 40-hour week and I think you should give the housewife a break."

"While she can't very well punch a time clock or ask time and a half for overtime when 'hubby' is late for dinner, she can expect to go out for dinner once in a while."

Informally Speaking...

April 8, 1940.

Lucy, dear:

WELL, we really seem to be having spring weather at last—of course the only bad part about it is that it rains a great deal of the time—but then we have to expect that, I guess, especially if we want the spring flowers to bloom on schedule. . . . Incidentally, Lucy, some of those gay little yellow, white and purple crocuses have poked their heads up in our flower garden, are those in yours getting brave too?

Marianne

Most all the news I have for you today is about college students and their important doings. . . . Marlene Weirman is leaving Ada tomorrow to go on a concert tour with the a cappella choir of Ohio Northern university, under the direction of Haydn Owens. . . . The group will go to Akron first, presenting a broadcast at 5 o'clock in the afternoon and a concert at 8 o'clock in the evening. . . . Then on Wednesday and during the rest of the week, the choir will appear at DuBois, Pa., New Britain, Conn., Binghamton, N. Y., Westport, Conn. and New York City—in the latter city, the singers will broadcast over WOR at 3:15 p. m. and will present a concert at 8 p. m. . . . With a stop-off in Steubenville, the choir will return to Ada on April 18. . . . But Marlene will hardly have time to catch her breath before the Phi Chi sorority spring formal at the Findlay Country club on the 19th—and she's social chairman for the affair. . . . This busy young lady is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Wierman, you know.

* * * * *

* * * * *

MARTHA SPETKA was in town over the week-end, visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Spetka. . . . She came up from Columbus, where she's a freshman at Ohio State university. . . . And I'll let you in on a secret, Lucy—I think Martha made a special trip home this week-end because she's so proud of her new Chi Omega pledge pin and she wanted everyone to see it. . . . She was pledged to the sorority last week. . . . Martha is a member of Mid-Mirrors, freshman honorary for girls, which is the first step toward Mortar Board, (senior girls honorary society). . . . Martha is majoring in physical education, and so she's most happy about her recent election to the board of the Physical Education club—and she's in charge of getting public speakers to appear before the group. . . . All this certainly sets a fine record for a first year student, doesn't it, Lucy?

* * * * *

T. D. Hudson and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. McCulley, jr., and Richard Sowers spent the week-end in Buffalo, N. Y. . . . They drove up and back to visit with the Herman Harris family—and by the way, you might know the Harris', Lucy, because they visit here most every summer.

* * * * *

YOU missed it by not coming over for the Beta Epsilon spring dance Saturday night, Lucy. . . . About 60 couples attended the formal at the Grotto hall, and George Perry's orchestra furnished the music for dancing. . . . Kay Johnson, Dorothy Stephenson, Margaret Rizer, Patricia Anderson and Helen Downard were in charge of the arrangements.

* * * * *

Do try to come over for a visit some time soon, Lucy, and in the meantime, write me a long, newsy letter.

Lovingly,

Marianne

Publish Survey On Employment of College Women

IN THIS day when unemployment has become one of the major issues of modern life a great many studies of those who have jobs, how they got them, what they make, and what the prospects in varied fields are have been made. A recently published, detailed report made by Dr. Susan M. Kingsbury, and based on a study made in 1935 by the Committee on Economic and Legal Status of Women of the A. A. U. W. and the Women's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor presents some interesting facts.

Out of the 8,796 members of A. A. U. W. branches surveyed in 1934 seven out of ten were found to be in educational work. Based on salaries or wages these studies showed that women with their own businesses and personnel workers had the highest salaries approximating $3000, while school or college executives came close to that figure, teachers, librarians, secretaries and social workers fell in the $2000 top figure class, while clerical workers were found to be the lowest paid.

While from the basis of education it was learned that 55 per cent of those surveyed with doctor's degrees averaged $3,000 or more, only 17 per cent with master's degrees reached this figure, and a mere 8 per cent of those with bachelor's degrees.

Friends Honor Couple Wedded For 30 Years

A group of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bowser, 38 Elmwood drive, gathered Saturday evening to surprise the couple in commemoration of their 30th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Bowser were married April 6, 1910, in Hollidaysburg, Pa., and came to Richland county at that time.

They are the parents of Arthur Bowser, Shelby, and Mrs. Ernest Chronister, Mansfield. A three-tier wedding cake centered the table at which a buffet luncheon was served at the close of the evening. Out-of-town gusts were Mr. and Mrs. Bowers, Mr. and Mrs. James Wentz, Eleanor Jean Wentz, Glenn Earl, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Boutwell and Edwin Boutwell, all of Shelby.

PROGRAM ON POSTURE PRESENTED TO CLUB

THERE were 60 members and guests of Delta Kappa Gamma society present at the Women's Club Saturday afternoon for the program on "Personality and Posture" conducted by Miss Margaret Taylor, Cleveland. Miss Taylor, an authority on posture, maintained a studio in New York before coming to Cleveland. She was trained as a teacher of music and physical culture for the public schools, but later prepared for an operatic career.

Miss Taylor has sung in Italy, South America and Canada, as well as the United States. She was sponsored in her appearance here by the Cleveland Federation.

Illustrating her talk with examples of right and wrong posture, the speaker pointed out that standing, sitting and walking are three basic things required in life, and if these three things are correctly done good posture will result.

She also explained that children do not naturally have correct posture, and that parents and teachers must give it constant emphasis during the formative years.

Miss Pearl Danback played a group of flute solos. Her selections were "Gavotte" by Cossack, and "Serenade" and "Spring's Awakening" by Victor Herbert. Miss Helen Hartmann then sang "Farewell" and "He Is Coming," by Robert Franz, and "Why," by Tschaikowski. Mrs. Ambrose Middleton accompanied both Miss Danback and Miss Hartmann.

No date for the next regular meeting of the group was announced.
